Anderson Disclaims Denial By Mitchell

WASHINGTON (AP) — Columnist Jack Anderson contended today that John N. Mitchell, as attorney general, knew early last year of a pledge allegedly made by the International Telephone & Telegraph Corp. to the Republican National Convention even though he has denied it.

"Mitchell was running the Republican Party from inside the Justice Department," said Anderson.

"If he says under oath what he said in the statement he issued it will be the most arrogant example of perjury this committee has ever seen."

Anderson referred to Mitchell's Feb. 28 statement which the Justice Department issued to deny accusations made by the columnist that the settlement of an antitrust case against ITT was arranged by Mitchell and top ITT officials.

Anderson said that California Lt. Gov. Ed Reinecke and his aide, Edgar Gillenwaters, have confirmed that they discussed ITT's commitment to the convention with Mitchell last May at the same time the Justice Department was negotiating a settlement of three antitrust suits against ITT.

Mitchell was expected to testify after Anderson during hearings by the Senate Judiciary Committee into charges by Anderson that Justice Department officials committed improprieties in the ITT settlement.

Anderson's comments, in answer to questions by Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., brought on a political skirmish in which Republican Sens. Marlow Cook of Kentucky and Roman Hruska of Nebraska asked that Anderson not be allowed to continue his testifying about Mitchell.

"This committee should not have to listen to this political diatribe," said Hruska. "We should get only the facts."

Cook said, "the former attorney general can speak for himself. We shouldn't have to sink this low."

In testimony Thursday an investigator for Anderson, Brit Hume, said he was told by an ITT lobbyist that President Nixon was involved in efforts to settle the ITT case.

Mitchell said almost immediately after Hume testified that "the President has never, repeat never, made any request to me directly or indirectly concerning the settlement of the ITT case and I took no part in that settlement."

Anderson and Hume were scheduled to continue their testimony today as the committee began its seventh day of hearings into the accusations by Anderson that Justice Department officials were guilty of improprieties in the ITT settlement.

Chairman James O. Eastland, D-Miss., said he wants Dita D. Beard, the ITT lobbyist quoted by Hume, to testify before the committee hearings— probably in about a week. However, Eastland said he does not plan to send investigators to Denver where Mrs. Beard is hospitalized with a heart ailment.

Anderson has published a memorandum attributed to Mrs. Beard in which she suggested out-of-court settlement of the multi-billion-dollar suits against ITT was linked with corporation's $400,000 pledge to the Republican National Committee.

Anderson, quoting from the memo, described a meeting between Mitchell, Mrs. Beard and former Kentucky Gov. Louie B. Nunn at a small dinner party after last year's Kentucky Derby.

Hume told the committee Mrs. Beard gave him details of the meeting when he confronted her with the memo which she said was written to her boss, W.R. Merriam, head of ITT's Washington office.

"She said the attorney general berated her for the trouble she was causing him by the speeches on the floor of Congress," said Hume. "She had about a dozen speeches made for her telling how badly ITT was being treated."

Hume then said, "She told me the attorney general told her the White House had called him and told him 'to lay off' of ITT.

"I said this is what the President said?

"She then softened it by saying the President wanted the attorney general to make a reasonable settlement," he said.

Earlier, Hume said, ITT President Harold Geneen ordered that the company underwrite the convention when Mrs. Beard met with Geneen in San Diego last May.

Wholesale Prices Continue Increase

WASHINGTON (AP) — Wholesale prices of food and a wide range of industrial products climbed an over-all nine-tenths of one per cent last month for the sharpest rise in a year, the government reported today.

Prices of farm products and processed foods, some of which are exempt from federal price controls, rose 1.9 per cent and prices of industrial raw materials and manufactured products went up five-tenths of one per cent, said the Bureau of Labor Statistics.

The over-all February wholesale price rise, generally a signal of rising consumer prices later, was a little less—seven-tenths of one per cent—on an adjusted basis for expected seasonal price changes. On the seasonal basis, the increase was the largest since December.

The report also said that the unadjusted rise of nine-tenths of one per cent would have been seven-tenths if agricultural products not subject to federal controls were eliminated.

It said that of the 1.9 per cent climb for farm products and processed foods, one per cent of it was for uncontrolled agricultural products such as raw fruits and vegetables, eggs and livestock.

The report said that the average monthly rise in the Wholesale Price Index since President Nixon imposed the wage-price freeze last August was four-tenths of one per cent, compared with a monthly average hike of three-tenths in the six months before the federal control program.

For the three months since Nixon's freeze gave way to the more relaxed control program, the monthly average rise was six-tenths of one per cent.

The February increase lifted the Wholesale Price Index for all commodities to 117.3 per cent of its 1967 average, four per cent above a year earlier.

BULLETIN

Ike L. Warren, 1009 West Third, was found dead in the basement of his home about noon Friday. Death was apparently caused by a self-inflicted shotgun wound to the heart. The gun was found near the body.

He was the husband of Mrs. Vivian Warren, secretary to the executive manager of the Sedalia Chamber of Commerce. One source said a note was found, indicating suicide.

Police and Sheriff's office representatives are investigating. Pettis County Coroner Dr. C. Gordon Stauffacher pronounced Warren dead at the scene. The body was taken to the Gillespie Funeral Home. A Pettis County Ambulance spokesman said the weapon was a 16-gauge shotgun.

Discuss Corporate Planning At 'Beacon' Board Meeting

Corporate organization, program progress and finances were the topics of discussion at a Beacon in the Night, Inc., board meeting at 1718 South Ingram, Thursday evening.

The organization, already incorporated under Missouri law, will soon submit by-laws to the Internal Revenue Service in order to gain tax exempt status as a non-profit body.

Members of the board looked over copies of the by-laws and made some minor changes. Attorney Robert Fritz donated his services in writing the document. It was also learned Fritz will handle revision of the group's articles of incorporation.

Dr. Robert Glass, chairman of the board, indicated progress of the program has been good recently.

The Rev. Leroy Hayes, president, said that a television was donated several weeks ago and that he received the title yesterday on a good used car, which was also donated.

Mr. Hayes, who founded the drug counseling service, and his family will soon move into a house at 315 East Boonville, which was donated a year ago. The youth worker said plumbing work is currently being donated at the house, but that floor covering materials, furniture and appliances are still needed in order to make the house ready for occupancy. He added that nightly efforts toward preparing the house will begin Monday.

When all work at the house is completed, it will have facilities for temporary lodging of youths in need of help, it was learned. Mr. Hayes noted the facilities will not be the best, but will be vital until more complete arrangements can be made in the future.

The group hopes to establish a self-supporting farm at which transient youths can find temporary lodging or where young people who have been abandoned by their families can have a home.

The organization's financial situation is slowly improving, according to Dr. Glass. He explained the service will operate on a monthly pledge basis, adding that at the end of a year it will be decided what type of permanent facilities are needed.

Dr. Glass said two churches have already pledged about $100 each. Also, there are about 10 individuals who have made pledges ranging from $5 to $50 monthly. Dwight Knief, treasurer, revealed Beacon in the Night now has over $400 pledged per month.

Dr. Glass said some of the individual contributors have been solicited, but noted that a few have actually sought out a method of backing the organization. He noted, however, that the present pledge level barely allows operation of the service.

One of the uses to which the money will be put will be a $50 per week salary for Mr. Hayes. The corporation will also secure a BankAmericard for Mr. Hayes' use. It was learned there has been no set salary of any kind for the organization's main worker until now.

When Mr. Hayes brought up the recent controversy over whether there is a real need for a drug counseling service locally, Dr. Glass said a high school girl who recently moved here from another large Missouri city described Sedalia as the drug distribution center for central Missouri.

Dr. Ted Means, board member, told of a recent encounter with a youth who questioned whether Beacon in the Night will turn in youths counseled on drugs.

Mr. Hayes emphasized the crime prevention emphasis of the service, and Dr. Glass said his meeting with Pettis County Sheriff Emmett Fairfax indicated local law enforcement officials understand that the young people counseled cannot be turned in if the program is to serve its purpose. He noted, however, that any person who is already wanted by authorities cannot be sheltered.

Anti-EDF Petitions Launched

A petition drive to provide opposition to a plan seeking an injunction to stop completion of the Truman Dam and Reservoir project south of Warsaw was launched Friday by realtor Kennie Miller.

Miller said his action was taken following a meeting in Clinton Thursday with residents from Osceola, Warsaw, Clinton and Deepwater who were concerned about the possible work stoppage. About 50 persons attended the meeting, he said. Miller told The Democrat-Capital that he would put 25 to 30 petitions in circulation within the city.

Another meeting will probably be held concerning the petition drive in Clinton next week. Miller said the group would probably hire an attorney to fight the injunction.

The petition drive follows a suit filed Monday by the Environmental Defense Fund in U.S. District Court in Kansas City to stop construction on the dam and reservoir project. The suit cites failure by the Corps of Engineers to comply with the National Environmental Policy Act and several other federal laws as the basis of the action.

Warrensburg Raids Bring Eight Arrests

(Democrat-Capital Service)

WARRENSBURG—Eight persons were arrested in pre-dawn drug raids held within a six mile radius of here Friday.

A coordinated effort by 30 law enforcement officers from the Warrensburg Police Department, the Missouri State Highway Patrol, the Johnson County Sheriff's office and Central Missouri State College law officers resulted in the arrests at six residences. Exact locations of the residences could not be revealed by the Johnson County Sheriff's office.

The raids were the result of a several-month long investigation requested by CMSC officials, according to Johnson County Sheriff Harlan Temple. He added the investigation had indicated there was "a considerable drug traffic in the area."

Charged with the sale and distribution of varied illegal drugs were:

Danny Frost, two counts of selling cocaine; Kimble Anderson, selling marijuana; Thomas Cabanas, selling hashish; Mark Stevens, selling MDA (amphetamines); and J. B. Cohen, two counts of selling marijuana and LSD.

Charged with possession of marijuana were William Foster, Shelly Snyder and James Carson.

Bond of $5,000 each was set for those charged with selling drugs and a tentative preliminary hearing date of March 16 was set, at arraignment Friday.

Bond of $500 each was set on the possession violations, but no preliminary hearing date had been set by noon Friday, according to the Johnson County Sheriff's office.

A sheriff's office spokesman indicated several other persons picked up during the raids were being held for investigation of similar charges, but had not been formally charged as of noon Friday.

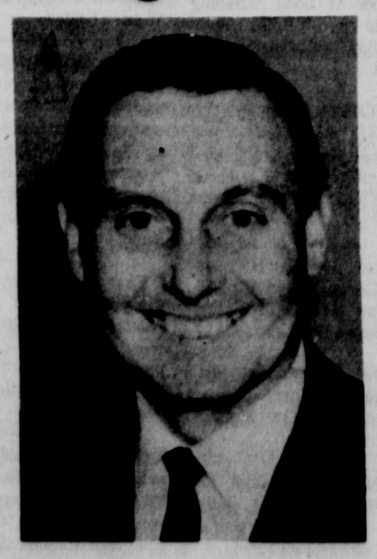
Search and arrest warrant information was given to participating officers by Johnson County Prosecutor George Mitchell in a pre-dawn briefing.

Large Gathering Attends Annual Chamber of Commerce Banquet

More than 550 persons at the 22nd annual banquet and meeting of the Sedalia Chamber of Commerce at Smith-Cotton High School Cafeteria Thursday night saw Fred E. Davis, president of State Fair Community College, honored as the recipient of the Chamber's annual Outstanding Citizenship Award.

The award was presented by John Pelham, second vice-president of the Chamber's board of directors. Davis, when accepting the plaque, commended those present for their assistance and cooperation in establishing the college and ensuring its progress during the last four years.

Also given special recognition were Thomas T. Keating, ex-officio member of the board who was presented a certificate and plaque for his service to the Chamber, and a special, unscheduled presentation to Mrs. Vivian Warren, secretary to the Chamber's executive manager, Chuck Lawrence, for her 20 years of service to the Chamber. Both presentations were made by Lawrence. Bill Burkholder, immediate past president, was also presented a plaque and certificate of appreciation.



Fred Davis

John Ellison, recently appointed president of the Chamber who succeeded Jim Mathewson after his retirement, briefly addressed the group and urged everyone present "to pull together." He pointed out that as individuals people could accomplish little, but that great achievements were possible through joint effort.

Following the awards presentations, Lawrence introduced the featured speaker of the evening, Dr. Kenneth McFarland, Topeka, Kan., who has been called "the nation's number one public speaker."

Dr. McFarland, acknowledged as the nation's most eloquent and effective exponent of the "American System," has received the Freedom Foundation's National Leadership Award and was also presented the Golden Plate Award by the American Academy of Achievement. It was the only award ever presented for public speaking by the Academy.

The key theme of McFarland's often humorous address was an attack on what he termed national apathy and an attitude of "you can't do anything about it." He cited these two factors as major reasons for increases in the crime rate, the failure of school systems and other major national problems.

Prior to his address, Lawrence introduced those at the head table, members of the board of directors and special guests — including Col. William J. Grossmiller, wing commander at Whiteman AFB, and Mrs. Grossmiller, and base commander Col. Floyd J. Pugh and Mrs. Pugh.

In reference to this, McFarland said, "I'm glad to see you honored the military. We had better all honor our military. We're in mortal danger in this world and the enemy is Red Russia. They have not changed their objective of total world domination one iota."

Dr. Kenneth McFarland

Concerning the national election, McFarland said, "I hope we start seeing some sense in this country after November . . . But I don't expect much between now and then."

McFarland paid repeated tributes to the Chamber of Commerce and commended Ellison for his definition of what a community is. He said that Ellison's statement that a community is people is an obvious one, but one which he rarely heard. "The Chamber of Commerce should recognize the individual component parts (of a community) . . . the people. The Chamber offers the only organization that has a complete cross section of leadership and talent," McFarland said.

In his travels across the U.S., he added, "I get the feeling that the chief characteristic of our people seems to be frustration. These so-called national problems usually have local solutions and

'Jesus Jews' Accept Christ As Messiah

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

When a band of casually dressed "Jesus people" overran a recent meeting of the United Methodist Council on Evangelism in San Francisco, some of them called themselves "Jews for Jesus."

They carried signs accusing the church of anti-Semitism.

This is the latest wrinkle in the Jesus movement that has spread among youths across the country, and it involves some sensitive points both for Juadism and Christianity.

In the view of the young participants, it is a kind of reemergence of olden messianic Judaism, holding firmly to Jewishness, but affirming the Jew, Jesus, as the Messiah.

A New York girl involved, Steffi Geiser, 21, says she had difficulty explaining her pro-Jesus position to her parents and in "trying to get them to understand I am not a Gentile," but "more Jewish" than before.

The Jewish manifestations of the Jesus movement apparently have cropped up in numerous places.

A recent issue of the evangelical weekly, Christianity Today, quotes a suburban Philadelphia rabbi as saying many Jewish youths were getting into the Jesus movement because of a "vacuum of identity" in many Jewish homes.

"These young people have accepted this belief with a fervor that cannot be reasoned away," he says. "We must all share the blame."

Some church leaders have made similar comments about reasons for many Christian youths spurning the organized church, but joining the Jesus groups outside it.

Dr. Robert Lifton, Yale University specialist in psycho-history, told a recent meeting of the Central Conference of American Rabbis concerning problems of Jewish youths that today they shift rapidly from one form of religious expression to another without permanent commitment to any one pattern.

After being immersed in the drug culture, a young person may turn to the Jesus movement, absorbing what he wants, and then move on to Hassidic Judaism or some other religious form, Dr. Lifton said.

"It is the speed of the change which is new," he added. "It is not new that all young people are searching and seeking for self-identity."

Philadelphia reportedly has a sizeable number of Jewish Jesus people, who meet at a large house called "The Hidden Matzoh" to sing, pray, cultivate their Jewish heritage and tell of their new love of Jesus.

The "Jews for Jesus" appellation was started in San Francisco, where evangelist Martin Rosen leads a group of them.

Most major Christian denominations have shut down agencies formerly specializing in converting Jews, recognizing Christianity's own Jewish foundations in a Jewish Jesus, Jewish apostles and other Jewish marks of the original church.

Both Roman Catholicism's Second Vatican Council and the World Council of Churches have emphasized this relationship, and some Christian theologians maintain that if Christianity is a validly saving faith for Gentiles, it rests on the saving validity of Judaism.

However, some nondenominational Christian groups continue to evangelize among Jews, including an independent organization called the American Board of Missions to the Jews, with branches in numerous cities.

The Moody Bible Institute in Chicago and the Bible Institute of Los Angeles also carry on evangelism among Jews. But most major denominations have dropped it as a special concern, although still welcoming Jewish members.

Nearly two decades ago, a leading Protestant scholar, the late Rev. Dr. Reinhold Niebuhr, called for a halt in such special church activity, saying it was an offense to the faith held and practiced by Jesus throughout his earthly ministry.

At the San Francisco demonstration, more than 50 Jesus people joined in the Methodist discussion at the Mark Hopkins Hotel, asking questions, giving testimonials, distributing literature and engaging individuals in discussion.

"Amen," they frequently called out. "Right on!"

A black Methodist minister, the Rev. A. Cecil Williams, gave them a snappy lecture, criticizing them for stressing only that Jesus "saves individuals personally, but not fighting for Jesus' principles of justice by improving the lot of the poor and ridding society of racism.

Three Concerts Here

The "Extension," a contemporary music group from Evangel College, Springfield, will appear in three concerts in Sedalia — 8 p.m. Friday at Westside Assembly of God Church, 10th and State Fair Blvd; 8 a.m. Saturday on Cablevision's channel 2; and 7:30 p.m. Saturday in the Smith-Cotton auditorium. The concert at the school will be called "Jesus Christ — The Solid Rock." The musicians will be accompanied by 16 members of Evangel College's SCOPE (Student Corps of Pentecostal Evangelism) for the Saturday program and the 10:35 a.m. Sunday worship service at the church. The public is invited to the free concerts, according to the Rev. A. Wilson Phillips, pastor of the Westside Church which is sponsoring the concerts.

Associate Pastor For Maplewood

P. C. Thomas, 1100 South Massachusetts, was recently named associate pastor and director of Christian education of Maplewood Church, according to Dr. B. L. Boatright, chairman of the church's board of deacons.

The Rev. James Kane, Route 2, is the pastor of the church.

Thomas, a native of Secunderabad, India, has been a lay preacher in his homeland and has been associated with inter-denominational ministries such as Youth for Christ and Union of Evangelical Students of India (UESI). He is a member of the central Missouri committee of the Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship, a student ministry.

He is a consulting editor for The Evangelical Student, a UESI quarterly published from Madras, India.

Thomas holds B.A., M.A., and D.J. degrees from Osmania University, Hyderabad, India. He came to the United States in 1966 on a Rotary Foundation Fellowship to do graduate work in journalism at the University of Missouri-Columbia.

While in India, he taught journalism at Osmania University and served as copy editor on a daily newspaper.

Thomas will continue as a fulltime staff writer for The Sedalia Democrat-Capital.

Second Story Addition

The $55,000 second story addition to New Hope Baptist Church, 664 East 16th, was dedicated at a special service last Sunday. The Rev. Orval F. Woolery, Harmony Baptist Association's superintendent of missions, gave the dedication message, and the Calvary Gospel Four quartet provided special music. The addition can seat 128 more persons in the Sunday school classrooms. The church was organized as a chapel of the First Baptist Church in 1948 with 128 members. Current membership exceeds 450, according to the Rev. Dean Catlett, pastor, who is seen here at the car.

Jaycees Discuss Possible Role In Local Project

Steps toward taking an active role in the fledgling Meals on Wheels concept in Pettis County were considered at the regular meeting of the Sedalia Jaycees Thursday night at Bothwell Hotel.

The Jaycees also expressed favorable sentiment towards a proposed water fluoridation plan for Sedalia, as well as discussing several current Jaycees projects such as law enforcement programs, the Miss Sedalia Pageant and the annual TV Auction.

In related matters, the Missouri Jaycees have voiced support of five proposals before the state legislature, according to a statewide poll of the organization's chapters, representing about 8,000 members, and executive committee members.

Support was given to bills to extend adult rights and responsibilities to 18-year-olds, call a state constitutional convention, reorganize the executive branch of government into 10 departments and an office of administration, require licensing and regulation of ambulance drivers by the State Department of Health, and make it mandatory to fluoridate water unless voters in a local area decide against fluoridation.

Woman 'Fair' After Suffering Gun Shot Wound

Mrs. Smith Parkhurst, 82, 1421 South Stewart, was listed in fair condition at Bothwell Hospital after she suffered an apparently superficial gun shot wound to the left side of her head at her home shortly before noon Thursday.

Chief of Police William Miller told The Democrat-Capital Thursday the details of the mishap are still unknown although the investigation is continuing.

An ambulance driver reported that when he arrived at the scene Mrs. Parkhurst was sitting up in bed. He said she had dried blood on her hands.

Police confiscated a .32 caliber pistol and questioned Parkhurst at the station prior to releasing him to the custody of his daughter, Mrs. Eugene Davis, Jefferson City, who took him back to his home.

Miller said Thursday afternoon that an earlier report that the woman shot herself did not originate from police.

According to a Sedalia Ambulance service spokesman, Parkhurst called the ambulance service and it in turn notified police.

Another facet of the service was brought out when Mr. Hayes said Beacon in the Night was instrumental in getting a young man back into high school after he had been out for over a month. He said the youth, who was from out of town, had to be in the legal custody of a local resident in order to enroll in Sedalia schools.

Mr. Hayes said in this case a grandparent who lives in Sedalia took custody of the youth, but added that the corporation could conceivably take temporary custody of a youth in order to enroll him. He also said a juvenile was required to get weekly Beacon in the Night counseling as a part of probation stipulations last year.

Counselors for the corporation include Mr. Hayes, the Rev. Phil Newell and Dr. Means. It is hoped that the services of a psychiatrist who may set up a practice here soon can also be acquired.

The corporation's officers, all of whom are also board members, are Dr. Glass, chairman; Mr. Hayes, president; Mr. Newell, vice president; Mrs. Lois Means, secretary, and Knief, treasurer. Also on the board are the Rev. William Lusk, Chuck Lawrence, R. L. Russell and Dr. Means.

this is what makes a Chamber of Commerce so important."

According to McFarland the number one national issue he has found is the "breakdown of law and order." He urged the public to pay more attention to police needs and added that the crime problem can generally be traced to the home. "What's going on there? What are you teaching these people (youth)?" he asked.

McFarland said "parent power" would "solve half of this national problem."

He was also critical of the Welfare system and cited examples of violations and possible abuses. "What is amazing is the utterly ghastly things that are legal under the system," he said. At a time when employment, earnings and savings are at an all-time high, McFarland said, "We need to get some perspective on our problems before we can make any progress."

McFarland took issue with recent trends to blame industry for social problems. "Industry can't be held responsible for the recession," he said. "Industry does not create unemployment — it creates employment. We can disagree without destroying the system. Within this framework we can solve our problems," he added.

Sitting at the head table with McFarland were Mrs. Warren; Mr. and Mrs. Burkholder, Mr. and Mrs. Ellison, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence, and Mr. and Mrs. John Pelham.

Board members and their wives introduced included Emmett Fairfax and Mrs. Fairfax; K. U. Love Jr. and Mrs. Love; Robert Johnson and Mrs. Johnson; Louis R. Hughes Jr. and Mrs. Hughes; Bob McDonald and Mrs. McDonald; Robert C. Beykirch and Mrs. Beykirch; Dr. A. R. Maddox; Dr. Marvin R. Fielding and Mrs. Fielding; Oren Henry and Mrs. Henry; Firmin Boul and Mrs. Boul; Jake Siragusa and Mrs. Siragusa; Jim Grieshaber and Mrs. Grieshaber; J. E. Mitchell and Mrs. Mitchell. Unable to attend but recognized were Mr. and Mrs. John St. Clair.

Also introduced were the following retiring officers and board members and their wives: Thomas T. Keating and Mrs. Keating; Donald Callis and Mrs. Callis; James Edwards and Mrs. Edwards. Unable to attend were J. L. Mathewson, Arthur J. Morgan and Ned Postels.

Special guests introduced were Mayor Jerry Jones and Mrs. Jones; Ed Gordon, treasurer of the Marshall Chamber of Commerce, and Mrs. Gordon; Fred Cowen, chairman of the Marshall Community Development Committee, and Mrs. Cowen; Ron Jenkins, president of the Warsaw Chamber of Commerce, and Mrs. Jenkins; Gene Bibb, executive secretary of the Warsaw Chamber and Mrs. Bibb; Col. Grossmiller and his wife; Col. Pugh and Mrs. Pugh; and Gilbert Keith, industrial specialist from the Missouri Department of Commerce and Industrial Development, Jefferson City, and Mrs. Keith.

Recognition was also given to Ken Mosier, president of the Student Government Association at State Fair Community College, and Connie Reed, secretary-treasurer of the organization.

The meeting was opened by Pelham and Mrs. Burkholder, accompanied by Firmin Boul, led the singing of the National Anthem. The invocation was given by Mrs. Warren.

Quorum Loss Sets Meeting Back Again

For the second time in less than a week a meeting between the Pettis County Court and the Sedalia City Council to select a new member for the 12-mile Special Road District was postponed because there were not enough councilmen there to provide a quorum. The other meeting was set for 10 a.m. Wednesday, but was changed at the request of Mayor Jerry Jones. The second meeting was held at 10 a.m. Friday at the County Court chambers.

The next session is set for 10 a.m. March 25. The meeting is sought by members of the City Council to replace outgoing board member Orin Chappell, Route 4, with a Sedalia resident.

Presiding Judge B. A. Fischer asked Prosecuting Attorney Adam Fischer whether the meeting could be held Friday with only two councilmen, Mayor Jones and two members of the Pettis County Court present.

Fischer said there sould be five councilmen, the mayor and two County Court judges on hand before the selection of the new board member could be made.

Attending the meeting were Jones, Third Ward Councilman James T. Gwinn, First Ward Councilman Jesse Robinson, Judge Fischer, Eastern District Judge E. L. Birdsong and Mrs. Mary Jane Wilson, county clerk.

High Speed Chase Ends In Arrest Of Warsaw Man

A car from Warsaw was chased out of Sedalia by police Thursday night, but was stopped by the Highway Patrol in Johnson County and the driver is in jail in Warrensburg, facing a state charge of driving while intoxicated.

Earl Stewart, 201 North Washington, reported to police that three persons were causing a disturbance. When police arrived three men were getting into a car and Stewart said, "There they go." The police car gave chase but the car eluded them. The Highway Patrol was then notified.

The car headed west on Highway 50 and the Patrol stopped it near Knob Noster. The driver, Murlan Richmond, Warsaw, was taken to Warrensburg authorities. Sedalia police have issued warrants charging Richmond with running a stop sign at Main and Missouri, and with speeding 90 miles per hour in a 20-mile an hour zone.

Stolen Purse And Break-In Reported

A stolen purse and a house break-in were reported to police Thursday night.

Mrs. Dorothy Riley, 1403 South Missouri, reported her purse, containing some cash and important papers, was taken while she was at a local tavern. She said she had placed the purse in a booth, covered the purse with her coat and went outside. When she returned, the purse was missing, she said.

Mrs. George Evans, 1612 West Broadway, reported someone broke into her home between 7 and 10 p.m. Thursday, while she was away, and took $200 in cash and an English flashlight.

Police investigation showed entry had been gained by breaking the glass out of the front door.

Trick To Ironing Collars on Shirts

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY — I am answering Mrs. L. I. M. who has trouble ironing shirt collars so they are smooth on top. I worked as a quality controller in a shirt factory and we really never found the cause for the fullness in the top of a dress shirt collar and could not determine whether it was in the cutting, stitching or center pressing. When a finished shirt was pressed, the collar was always pressed from the point toward the center and, when buttoned, the fullness disappeared. — OPAL

DEAR POLLY and MRS. L. I. M. — I find ironing the lining and back of a shirt collar first, then ironing from the points to the center back before turning over and ironing the top side helps eliminate the wrinkles. ALWAYS iron from the end of the collar toward the center, finish one side and then do the other and always have a firm grip on the collar. — IRMA

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY — I sew for all my family and every time I put sleeves in a garment they are an inch or two larger than the armhole opening. I have tried cutting off a little on the bodice part but that seldom helps. On my dresses and those for my two girls, it is usually all right to gather the sleeves or make pleats in them which I often end up doing, but when making a suit for my son I found the sleeves much too big for the jacket and that would not work. Does anyone have any suggestions as to how I can make sleeves fit? — MRS. R. J. S.

DEAR POLLY — My Pet Peeve is with grocery clerks in particular who are not familiar with the sale price of items and then charge the regular price for things that are on sale. I think it is part of their job to be familiar with the sale items. If all such clerks called out the prices as they ring them up it would be easier for the customer to point out an error being made in such prices. — MRS. G. McV.

DEAR READERS — This is only one of many who have written with this same Pet Peeve. — POLLY

Transplant Patient Returns to His Home

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Vincent H. Dobelman, Missouri's first heart transplant patient, went home Thursday, and his wife Jeannette had it well scrubbed.

Mrs. Dobelman had to use surgical soap to scrub the house, including the woodwork, to make sure her husband did not contract any bacteria that would be harmful.

Dobelman, 44, looked down at his chest at a news conference and said, "It's hard to realize it's in there."

Thirty days earlier at Firmin Desloge Hospital he received the heart of Claytus Williams, 45, of St. Louis, who died following surgery for a brain tumor.

Dobelman has seven children and lives in Jennings, a St. Louis suburb.

Unemployment Payments Dip Noted

The Sedalia office of the Missouri Division of Employment Security failed to follow the state trend in February when regular and extended unemployment insurance claims and payments increased.

State-wide, February's payments of $9,392,618 reflected an increase of 9.8 per cent over the $8,552,821 paid to jobless Missourians in January.

The Sedalia office paid $129,374 in February in unemployment insurance benefits, compared to $141,540 paid in January. However, the office paid $25,305 in extended benefits, it was reported.

On the state level, the claims total for the federal-state extended benefits program reflected an increase up from January's $19,095 to $34,511 last month. January was the first month of the extended benefits program.

Herman Julien, director of the Missouri Division of Employment Security, said that of the more than $9 million paid out in regular benefits, "payments to former federal civilian workers accounted for $126,355 and payments to veterans, $761,845."

The average regular benefit check, he reported, was $48.94.

Of the two other Sedalia area offices of the Division, only one showed a decrease in payments since January.

The Marshall office paid $75,502.55 in January and saw its payments drop to $47,540 last month. It was a different story in Clinton, where $63,451 was paid out in February, compared to $59,351 the month before.

Clinton paid $13,488 in extended unemployment insurance benefits last month and Marshall paid $7,163.

My Appreciation and Gratitude. . .

Behavior Change Demands Attention

Dear Dr. Lamb — I read your article which said that there was no healing of the brain cells that were damaged by a stroke. I was wondering if any aneurysm operation could cause damage to the brain cells. Could a psychiatrist or psychoanalyst or pills help? Three years ago my son had that operation and here is what I have noticed in his behavior since: very nervous, lies a lot, cannot take pressure of any kind, forgetful, cannot find work he likes, fear, reads a lot about suicide, reads a lot about dirty sex, not too many friends. He had none of this before the operation and he does not take drugs or drink.

Dear Reader — It is very difficult in medicine to establish a direct cause and effect relationship, particularly in problems related to the personality. These events may have occured normally as the years passed, totally independent of the operation. I presume when you say aneurysm you are talking about a dilated artery in the brain because of the question of brain damage. Brain damage can follow almost any kind of operation if there are complications. Frankly psychotic behavior often occurs after open heart surgery. Fortunately, it usually disappears in time.

If your son has really had a significant change in personality, it would be a good idea for him to see a psychiatrist. A psychiatrist could help him a lot and anybody who reads a lot about suicide needs help. The problem should not be ignored.

Dear Dr. Lamb — I am 50 years old and have had coronary artery disease for more than two years. My doctor says it is not severe enough for medicine. I get severe pain over the left breast and left arm after exertion or when I begin to tire. How long do you have to live with this disease before you need to get help for it?

Dear Reader — If the pain you are talking about is caused by your heart, you could take nitroglycerin tablets. That is what they are for. Your letter isn't explicit enough for me to be certain that your pain, however, really is related to the heart disease that you state you have. Typically, the exertional pain from heart disease occurs at the time one is doing the exertion and not some time afterward.

Of course, you can have heart pain even at rest, but that usually means something else. If you are having pain very often, why don't you ask your doctor if he won't give you nitroglycerin tablets that you slip under your tongue to stop the pain? People who have pain with exertion caused by the heart can learn what amount of exercise will produce it and take the tablets before the exertion. This often prevents pain.

Job Retraining: The Key to Economic Health?

WASHINGTON — When 5,400,000 Americans want a job and can't find one, the political implications are obvious in a Presidential election year.

Rowan

So the constantly-enflamed emotions over school busing, trips to China and Russia and all the other stratagems will not erase the nation's economic woes as a major factor when the people go to the polls next November.

But the grim truth is that America's economic miseries are too deep and too serious to be regarded as merely an aberration which produces political advantage for one party or another.

This country has, in recent years, been plagued by high levels of unemployment plus extremely high levels of inflation, even though it supposedly was in a period of economic recovery. The so-called economic experts have hauled out a panoply of classical and dogmatic remedies, but the economic ailments have lingered — or worsened.

The U.S. has lost her competitive position in the world, with the balance of payments gap reaching critical proportions. There is not the slightest sign that the U.S. position as a foreign trader is going to improve soon.

We have a situation where the secretary of the treasury opines that this country cannot hold unemployment below 4 per cent (or about 3,500,000 jobless workers) without unacceptably high levels of inflation.

But how can this be so when in 1970 West Germany held unemployment to a mere four-tenths of one per cent even while the rate of inflation was just 2.5 per cent higher than the change in real output?

(That same year in the U.S. both unemployment and inflation rose sharply while real output declined!)

What is Germany — or France or Denmark — doing right that we insist on doing wrong?

Dr. Herbert E. Striner, dean of the College of Continuing Education at the American University here, spent last summer in those three countries, examining their manpower policies under a grant from his institution and the Ford Foundation.

Striner has returned with some convincing conclusions and some recommendations that may be bitterly controversial. His report will soon be published by the W. E. Upjohn Institute for Employment Research. What he is saying may be so crucially important to the health of our economy — and the well-being of America's jobless — that I asked for permission to give readers an advance summary.

Striner found that West Germany, France and Denmark have enjoyed economic miracles because they have accepted some truths that the U.S. goes on ignoring:

1. "In an economy which is based upon technological change ... the presence of a large number of adults whose inadequate level of education or training freezes them out of the new economy also becomes a retarding force on that economy."

2. "An expanding economy whose expansion depends heavily upon new products, new technologies, and new distributions of incomes must also have a labor force constantly being refitted, retrained, and reeducated to meet these needs. To do less is to invite continuing unemployment, inflation, loss of markets and a national sense of frustration."

3. "An advanced industrialized society must see the continuing education, training and retraining of its labor force as a national capital expenditure; without that capital investment, the United States cannot hope to maintain ... an impressive rate of economic progress."

Striner found that the Germans have minimized the waste of manpower by training and retraining programs. "They don't see unemployed or underemployed workers as 'unmotivated, welfare types,' as too many of the citizens in our country do," the dean writes.

Striner points out that "the German adult who is out of a job or feels that his skill is obsolescing and will result in his unemployment can go to a full-time training program which is free and also receive a stipend, which on the average covers about 70 per cent of his former wage. Thus the German isn't told that a free training and education program awaits him if, somehow, he can place his family in a state of suspended animation and convince his landlord not to ask for rent."

Striner points out that the United States never has had a genuine job-training program for its 500,000 hard-core unemployed or a program to retrain workers whose skills are made obsolete by new technology.

"We nibbled around the edges of a problem, camouflaged inadequate summer make-work programs as training efforts, and then wrung our hands and shed copious tears over 'the failure of another manpower program,'" he writes.

There are 1,028,000 jobless black Americans today whereas there would be only 500,000 if blacks could find work at the same rate as the rest of the population. This is a direct reflection of the fact that we have had no training and retraining programs for people whom the rest of society is happy enough to dismiss as "welfare types."

Striner has come back home with a bold program, which I shall discuss in another column, that offers this country a route out of the doldrums. It deserves the most serious consideration by whoever runs this country for the next four years.

Law Is 'Political' In Red Countries

Most commentary on President Nixon's visit to Peking has dealt almost exclusively with the impact of China's emergence into the active world community on such things as the international balance of power and American and Soviet foreign policy.

But power and policy, national or international, must exist within a framework of law, reminds Charles S. Rhyne, president of the World Peace Through Law Center, a voluntary association of members of the legal profession in 128 countries, with headquarters in Geneva, Switzerland.

Every nation has laws, says the past president of the American Bar Association. A nation's system of laws distills and crystallizes its most significant attitudes, values and beliefs and is a rather reliable mirror reflecting the status of its civilization.

In China, the individual has traditionally been subordinated to the family and other social groups. In many of its aspects, this family system filled roles the West assigns to formal statute law.

Viewed in the light of China's long history, the centralization of government and control of the people under the Communists is very little different today than under any of its imperial dynasties, says Rhyne.

The traditional Chinese view is that law is an instrument to protect the political and social order, rather than a guardian of private rights and interests. That view prevails today under the Communists. There is much reliance upon moral persuasion and social sanction.

The law emphasis is upon the suppression of crimes rather than upon resolution of individual disputes. There is no code of criminal law or criminal procedure and no code of civil procedure.

As far as we can tell, says Rhyne, China's law system has gradually improved since 1949. There no longer seem to be mass trials where such enemies of the state as landlords were condemned to death and executed in public.

But as in Russia, whose system is also slowly improving, it is still a far cry from providing individual freedom under law. Lenin's definition of law as "a political instrument" clearly prevails.

Leadership Crisis Is Noted in House

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — It has now been 14 months since 81-year-old John McCormack finally retired as Speaker of the House. He was a relic of another era, too old to lead, too feeble to grasp the issues of the times.

Yet McCormack's retreat to Boston, under the shame of the scandal surrounding his top assistant, Dr. Martin Sweig, did little to revitalize the House. McCormack at least understood the use of power. And he was personally an honorable man.

Unhappily, the House is not a better place without him. The men who have filled the power vacuum show even less leadership ability, and they lack McCormack's strong ethics.

Carl Albert, the pint-sized Oklahoma politician who moved up to the Speaker's chair, has demonstrated on almost every possible occasion that the gavel is too heavy for him.

He does most of his swinging away from the chamber. He has startled more than one hostess by showing up at a party, not with his wife, but with his lovely Eurasian assistant on his arm. And he used to spend too much time around the punch bowl.

Now the Speaker, second in line for the presidency, tells friends he is staying away from the bottle. But the Eurasian girl is still on the payroll.

Majority Leader Hale Boggs is second in command of the House. Friends suspect John Barleycorn was the ghost writer for Boggs's poorly researched attack on J. Edgar Hoover.

The Democratic leader also has a reputation as a bar fighter. He slugged it out with a former Congressman at the prestigious Gridiron Club dinner.

He had to be locked in a room when he went to Florida to speak at a fund raiser for another Congressman. The guests were on their way out when Boggs broke free, mounted the rostrum and boggled the minds of his listeners with a free wheeling discourse.

Another night, he defended his heavyweight title in a Baton Rouge, La., restaurant. He topped if off with an incredible exhibition at a party for the House leadership at the home of Clark MacGregor, the White House lobbyist.

Albert is so wary of Boggs's behavior that he is afraid to step down from the chair and turn control of the House over to the man who is supposed to be his prime assistant. Albert has even cancelled trips to avoid leaving Boggs as boss.

The kindly Boggs has sought medical help. He knows he has a problem. So do the other 431 members of the House.

The crisis of leadership may not seem too important to citizens who just pay their taxes and expect the men they elect to do a job. But the sad fact is that, without leadership, the job doesn't get done.

Footnote: Perhaps the most competent leader in the House is Wilbur Mills, the crafty Ways and Means chairman. He probably could have beaten Albert in a showdown in January 1971. He chose not to contest the Speakership then. Within three months, however, he began to mount his strange little campaign for the Democratic presidential nomination. People who know him think he really wants to be Speaker.

The professionals who are supposed to chart U.S. foreign policy, increasingly, are being shut off from the information they need to do their job.

The experts who keep a sharp diplomatic eye on China and Russia, for example, learned about President Nixon's preparations to visit Peking and Moscow indirectly from American Communist leader Gus Hall.

A routine FBI report, passing on information that an informant had picked up from Gus Hall, gave the State Department's experts more information than they had been able to get out of the White House.

The China specialists, still in the dark about many details of the President's Peking visit, have warned that they must be given more information if they are to produce sound analyses.

Their access to information has also been limited by the security crackdown that followed our publication of the secret India-Pakistan papers. The Xerox machines are tightly restricted by day and locked by night. To make a copy of a secret document now just about requires a presidential waiver.

Footnote: There has been a frantic flurry of secret telegrams between Washington and Bangkok over our report that some of Thailand's top officials are operating a fleet of 11 trawlers, which move dozens of tons of opium a year to Hong Kong for shipment to American addicts. The 11 ships ply their trade year round, with no hindrance from Thai authorities. The State Department is anxiously trying to get its ducks in a row in case of a congressional inquiry.

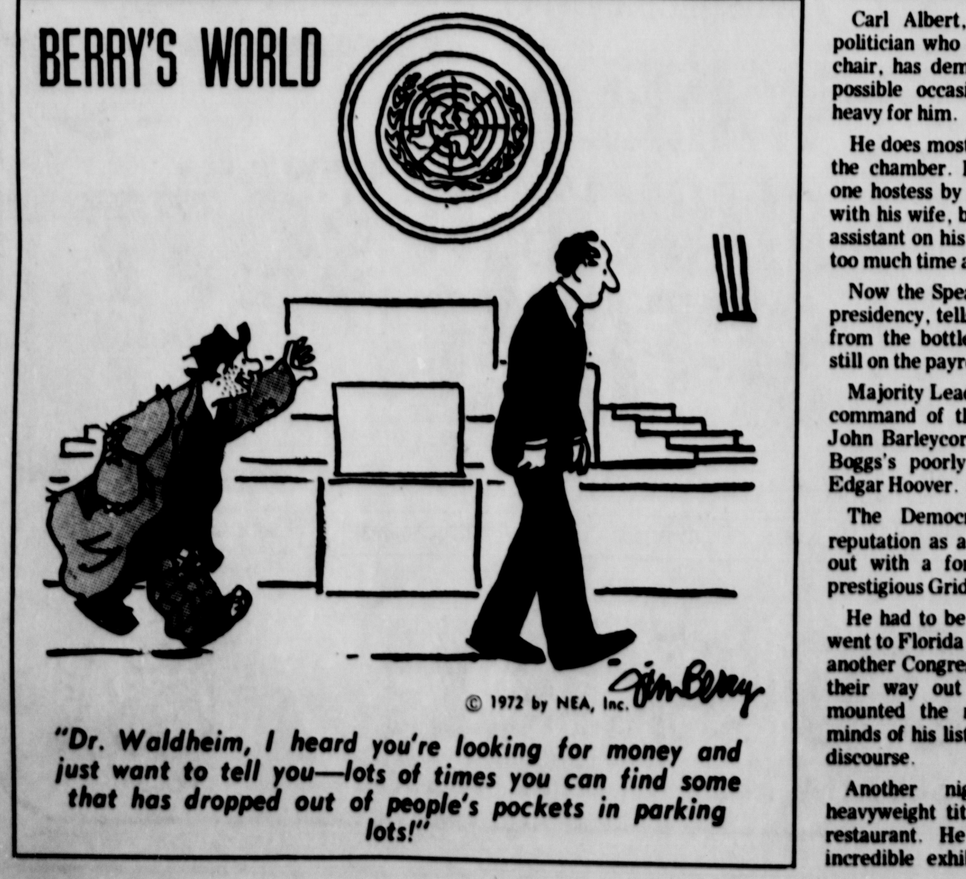
Electoral College

In the electoral college, each state has as many votes as the total of its senators and representatives in Congress. Amendment 23 to the U.S. Constitution, ratified in 1961, gave the District of Columbia three electoral votes.

Hooverize

As food administrator during World War I, Herbert Hoover called for "meatless meals" and "wheatless days" to save food for hungry Europeans. The term "Hooverize" came to mean economize.



"Dr. Waldheim, I heard you're looking for money and just want to tell you—lots of times you can find some that has dropped out of people's pockets in parking lots!"

Personal Slants

By DOUG KNEIBERT

While the Missouri Senate was reverberating recently with arguments on the merits of, and indeed the need for, billboard control, I was vacationing for a weekend on the Lake of the Ozarks.

Perhaps it was the bleak winter landscape that added to the mood, but my overriding impression of the kind of environment man has created around the lake was depressing.

Understand there is much that is beautiful in this Ozarks playground. But the rule of thumb seems to be almost this: what is pleasant and appealing is what is still nature's; what is ugly, garish and tawdry shows the unmistakable imprint of man's hand.

Commercial "strip" development has marred many of the Lake towns, where competition for the motorist's attention is the name of the game. This kind of lakeside megalopolis is growing at a cancerous rate.

With the exception of a new bank, I didn't see one building that appeared to give even a passing thought to design or architectural appeal. One must go to the resorts themselves to find this.

Many places are a ghetto of signboards, both in town and country. Missouri's reputation as a haven for the outdoor advertising industry seems well earned after such a trip. Americans are, in my experience, second only to the Japanese in their love affair with the sign. But reasonable limits must be placed on this sort of thing, lest we totally obscure the very environment we are promoting.

Despite these excesses, there is still much of the Lake area that retains a kind of pristine beauty and appeal. And some commercial developments have been built with the idea of blending into their surroundings, rather than desecrating them.

We can still save much of the Lake area from further mindless exploitation. But we must start now, on the local level. The forces that would turn this great asset into a Missouri version of Coney Island have had a big head start.

I got a chance to renew old Navy times the other day with Lt. Cmdr. Bob Morgan, who was spending some leave in Sedalia with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Morgan.

Bob and I were in Pearl Harbor in the early 60's, and served in the same destroyer division—251. He was aboard the Nichols, and my ship was the Sproston. Both have since been decommissioned.

Today Bob is the executive officer on the nuclear attack submarine USS Scamp, home port San Diego. He just returned from extended deployment in the Western Pacific, where he sprouted a beard to burnish his image as a submariner.

Shore duty is in line for Bob in about six months, he told me, and after that he hopes to command his own boat. Although "boat" is no longer an appropriate name for submarines, since some classes today approach a large destroyer in size.

Speaking of the Navy, the Battle of the Coral Sea Association is looking for veterans of that historic engagement to help celebrate the 30th anniversary of the battle May 4-7 in Norfolk, Va.

The Battle of the Coral Sea was fought May 7-8, 1942, northeast of Australia. It saved that country from invasion by the Japanese, and was the first encounter in history in which two major carrier fleets fought each other using air power alone.

Both sides claimed victory, but it was really the Japanese Imperial Navy that took most of the knocks.

The anniversary of the battle has been observed in Australia for many years. It was reported to be the best duty in the fleet when I was in the Navy—to be Down Under for the Coral Sea celebration. The Australian women were rumored to be especially grateful to the Yanks.

Getting back to the subject: this is the first observance in this country of the battle. If there are any Coral Sea veterans out there, write: P.O. Box 1172, Rockville, Md., 20850.

Recap Renewed Controversy on Truman Dam Project

WARSAW, Mo. (AP) — With about $64 million already funneled into the Harry S. Truman Reservoir and dam from the taxpayers — and with the project about 23 per cent complete — it suddenly has become a matter of renewed controversy as the result of a court suit.

The Environmental Defense Fund, in conjunction with the Missouri Wildlife Society and seven residents of the reservoir area, filed a petition last Monday in U. S. District Court, Kansas City, for an injunction prohibiting continuation of construction.

EDF, which has halted construction with court orders of two dams in Arkansas, claims the Army Corps of Engineers exaggerated the benefits of the massive project on the Osage River, 100 miles southeast of Kansas City. And if the reservoir is completed, EDF says, it could bring about the extinction in this country of the paddlefish —or spoonbill –which is at home in the area and found outside the country only in China.

"It's a little too late," said Gordon Drake, mayor of the small city of Warsaw which has charted a transition from agriculture to tourist-orientation the past six years.

Target date for completion of the Truman Reservoir in June 1979. The estimated cost approaches $300 million.

With the project so far advanced, it had generally been considered a fait accompli. What the suit did was to demonstrate the controversy remained deep-rooted in a sort of dormant state — even though many of the opponents expressed surprise at the development at this stage.

The most vocal opposition to the project was expressed several years ago by some farmers who would be forced to sell their land.

Most of the town will survive the floodpool waters, but some of the outlying districts will not.

Harry Mills, president of the Mo-Ark Basin Association and operator of a Clinton, Mo., insurance office, recalled 90 per cent of the area residents were in opposition to a proposal in 1954, when the Corps of Engineers was considering a 12,000-acre lake.

"Then it became obvious that something was going to be done regardless and we'd better see if we could get a restudy and see if we could get some benefits for those of us above the lake," Mills said.

Support was gained for a redesign of the project that included a power project and the larger recreation lake—55,600 acres at normal water level and up to 209,000 acres at flood stage, Mills said.

That will make it the largest federal reservoir in Missouri or Kansas and nearly the size of the Lake of the Ozarks.

Farmers faced with losing their land attempted no legal action because some "just didn't feel that strong about it" and some "just didn't get together," Mayor Drake said.

Any claim that many families would be displaced by the dam is untrue, he said, because "most of the farmers have already sold out. . . . There would be a big problem of what to do with the land."

To date, 330 families have been forced to move from farm homes; 550 from nonfarm homes.

Marion Barnes, a plaintiff in the EDF suit and an Osceola farmer who purchased his land in the Osage valley 30 years ago, said he has yet to negotiate with government agents on the value of his land.

"All they think about is condemning it," he said. "I haven't seen an appraiser in two years. I just want them to be fair."

He views the suit as the last chance to stop the dam, which would take 223 acres of his farm, leaving him with 17 acres and a house.

J. S. Whiataker, a director of the Deepwater State Bank and a fellow plaintiff, said:

"You can always build a dam; you can't build rivers. It will put me out of business in farming and I don't know what it's going to do to the bank."

Whitaker faces the loss of 429 of his 709 acres to the reservoir and some of his favorite fishing holes and deer runs.

Mahlon White, editor of the Benton County Enterprise, said the suit might have had some effect if it had been filed before the farmers were displaced. "But the area is becoming tourist-oriented and the town would be against it," he said.

If necessary, he said he would take an editorial stand against the suit.

O. C. Crudginton, president of the Osage Valley Bank in Warsaw, echoed some of the local sentiment that the suit was "late," and said, "All that money would be down the drain" if construction were halted.

Col. W.R. Needham, Corps district engineer in Kansas City, reviewed expenses on the project to date after the suit was filed:

"We have about $26 million worth of construction in place at the project and another $45 million under contract. We have spent about $27 million to purchase 115,600 acres of land, which represents about one-half of the land acquisition costs required for the project.

"The total investment by the taxpayers to date is approximately $64 million."

Ziegel W. Neff, Warsaw attorney who agrees with the feeling "if the project was going to be stopped it should have been long ago," said:

"I don't think Warsaw is going to benefit as much as most people think. Clinton will be the town that will benefit most. It will be the gateway to the Truman Reservoir."

One of those envisioning a merchant's paradise, Russell Weaver, realtor, said area residents are counting on the reservoir to bring in "missions of people" — a dramatic reversal for Henry County, where the population has dropped from 27,000 in 1890 to 18,000 in 1970.

As for environmental ramifications, people in Warsaw are "insensitive to clean water and wildlife and don't really care about the environment," said Rod Roberts, one of the directors of the area Headwaters Association. But he sees no reason to oppose the dam, which he views as a benefit to the city.

M.K. Chapman of Clinton, retired regional supervisor for the Missouri Conservation Department, feels EDF's concern for the paddlefish may be overreaction. The living example of prehistoric existence—with a body like a catfish and a long bill like a swordfish—is in the Warsaw area, he said, but it is also found in the Lake of the Ozarks below Bagnell Dam and in the Upper Osage above Osceola.

Less moved by the possible danger to the paddlefish was State Sen. William J. Cason, D-Clinton, majority floor leader, who promised the Corps of Engineers to throw his weight against any efforts to beat down the EDF suit.

"The Environmental Defense Fund, Inc., has already done more harm to the morale of pour pople than their paddlefish could make up for in the next 100 years," Cason told Needham in a telegram.

Already Rationing Gas

WASHINGTON (AP) — A critically short supply of natural gas, the fuel which heats and air conditions millions of homes and businesses, has triggered stringent rationing in dozens of major cities. Within a year the crisis could blanket the nation.

Many gas utility companies already are refusing to take any new commercial, industrial or residential customers and, in some cases are cutting back service to existing customers.

"Lousy is the word we're using to describe the situation here," said a spokesman for the New York Public Service Commission, which as early as last October issued orders severely restricting the attachment of new gas service throughout the state.

Washington Gas Light Co. has ceased taking any new customers. New service has been refused to all applicants in Chicago for more than a year. A program under way in that city will make gas service available to some new customers, but the gas will come from cutting back or cutting off some old customers.

State utility commissions in Ohio, Michigan, Maryland and Pennsylvania have approved drastic gas-service limitations, while utilities in Georgia and California have been informed by their suppliers that no additional quantities of natural gas will be available in the foreseeable future, raising the spectre of future rationing there.

And no one sees the crisis easing before late 1974 or 1975.

The problem has been growing for several years, fed by the inability or unwillingness of major natural-gas producers to explore for new fields.

In a classic domino effect, this has cut the amount of new gas available to pipeline distributors who, in turn, have cut back supplies to utility companies.

Even if new exploration began today, experts agree, it would take three to four years to find enough new gas and sink enough new wells to get production running ahead of demand again.

The Federal Power Commission last December initiated a study to determine if gas supplies were in fact as critically low as industry spokesmen claim. Those spokesmen argue that rate structures set by the FPC do not allow enough profit to finance the high-risk, low-yield job of gas exploration.

Consumer advocates, on the other hand, claim that the gas producers have deliberately cut back exploration to create a gas shortage and force the FPC to approve higher rates, a contention that gas producers strongly deny.

How long the FPC study will take is not known, and, at the moment, the gas supply situation has passed the critical point in many states. According to FPC statistics, the 75 largest gas producers in the nation already have committed 98 per cent of their proven reserves for sale and, because more gas is being used than found each year, the reserves keep dropping.

A New York State Public Service Commission study released last fall, concluded that the United States will consume 390 trillion cubic feet of natural gas by the late 1970s and as of now there are just 291 trillion cubic feet in reserve. Of that, 31 trillion cubic feet are locked beneath Alaska's North Slope, unavailable until the end of a legal battle which already has delayed drilling for 2½ years.

World War II Ace Fights Ill Health

FRESNO, Calif. (AP) — Gregory "Pappy" Boyington was credited with knocking 28 Japanese planes from the skies during World War II. Now he says a multitude of problems is shooting down his health.

"The type of life I lived, the old machine was bound to wear out," the gravel voiced, 59-year-old Medal of Honor winner said in an interview Thursday.

Boyington, living here temporarily to get treatment at a Veterans Administration hospital, said his ailments have included cancer which required the removal of part of one lung.

"I've been quite ill the last five years. I just want to pass on without fuss," Boyington said. "I've had a pretty full life, and nothing lasts forever. Any way the wind blows, I won't kick."

Boyington was an American war hero even before the United States entered World War II. He was credited with six kills over China in 1941 while flying with Gen. Claire Chennault's American volunteer group, the Flying Tigers.

When Marine surgeons later predicted a broken leg would end his combat flying, Boyington molded a group of pilots rejected by other squadrons into the Black Sheep, a crack aerial battle squadron in the Solomons during 1943-44.

A lieutenant colonel, Boyington spent the final year and a half of the war as a Japanese captive after his plane was shot down in January 1944.

The day he was captured, Boyington was credited with his 26th confirmed kill, tying a record set by Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker in World War I.

Later, Boyington was officially credited with shooting down 28 planes.

Boyington was reluctant to talk about his war record.

"Hell, this stuff is all gone, and I'd just as soon let it go and forget it," he said. "I rarely ever talk about it unless someone brings it up. I don't want to bore anybody or give the impression of being a bore."

Ann Landers

Widow Let Kids Rule Her Roost

Dear Ann Landers: I was widowed at age 58. That was 12 years ago. My husband left me very comfortable. I had a big house, no bills and his insurance program was a good one. I could have managed very nicely if I had had the good sense to say no to my children.

My two sons were left substantial sums by their father. They were also left a fine business which they ran into the ground within three years. Shortly after they lost the business they talked me into selling my house and loaning them the money so they could go into a new business about which they knew absolutely nothing.

My older boy's wife begged me to come and live with them. She made it sound wonderfully appealing — said my presence would add a beautiful dimension to the lives of their children. I was flattered and quite puffed up, to be honest with you. Within two months I realized I had made a mistake but I had no money and no place to go. What little money I had was tied up in the new business. In other words, I am now dependent on my children.

My advice to all widows is this: Don't change your way of living if you don't have to. Hang on to your money. Hang on to your house. Let your married children make their own way. My husband would turn over in his grave if he could see what happened to me. — I am — Sad and Sorry.

Dear Sad: Thank you for the autobiographical essay. You've offered a post-graduate course for widows in one easy lesson.

Dear Ann Landers: Five of us have had coffee together nearly every morning for a long time. We all live on the same street and we meet at my house about 10:00 a.m. I have no children and I love to bake coffee cakes and cinnamon rolls so it's no trouble.

The problem is the woman who moved next door. I invited her to join our group three months ago and now I'm sorry. You know how women are, Ann — we talk about this one and that one, and I don't care what anybody says, we all enjoy a little gossip. This new gal is so self righteous she makes me sick. No matter what is said she jumps in with, "Were you there? Can you prove it? How do you know it's true?"

After all, Ann, we're just a bunch of housewives who like to kaffeeclatch. We aren't testifying before a grand jury or anything. Since Mrs. Righteous joined us our mornings aren't nearly so interesting. She only shows up about two mornings a week but it's two too many. How can we get rid of her? — Coffee

Dear Coffee: I have an idea your problem will solve itself before long. Your group sounds too dull for her.

Dear Ann Landers: You'll probably think I'm crazy when you read this letter and you could be right but something has been on my mind and I don't know what to do about it.

A certain relative just bugs the daylights out of me. I can't stand her. If I die before she does I do NOT want her to attend my funeral. I get mad just thinking of the satisfaction she'd get if she outlasts me. No one knows I have these feelings and I don't want to reveal them. Is there any way I can arrange in advance to keep her out of the church? Please think of something so I can sleep at night. — Looking Ahead

Dear Looking: You can state in your will that you want a private funeral — invitation only. List the "guests" you would like to be present and request that no one else be admitted. Now get some sleep.

Fall Is Fatal To Young Kansan

MANHATTAN, Kan. (AP) — Six-year-old Charles Niblett was killed in a 15-foot fall from a garage roof where he was playing about two blocks from his home Thursday.

His father, Charles L. Niblett, is an assistant professor of plant pathology at Kansas State University.

$63,670 Check Is Received By City

City Clerk Ralph Dedrick said Thursday that the latest city sales tax check for the period from Jan. 24 to Feb. 22 amounted to $63,670.84.

This brings the amount received this fiscal year to $630,602.59. When the city sales tax was suggested in 1970 and later approved by voters, it was projected that the city would receive $700,000 in new revenue each fiscal year.

"As the result of this latest check, we should make our estimate with no trouble," Dedrick said.

Kentucky Gets Share of Title

By KEN RAPPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer

The buzzer boomed and Adolph Rupp bounded off the bench, rushing to the side of his sweet Kentucky babes.

There was no sign of chronic bad legs.

"I was mighty proud of my boys," said the basketball monarch after his Kentucky Wildcats beat Tennessee 67-66 Thursday night for a share of the Southeastern Conference title and a berth in the NCAA playoffs.

Rupp was just a kid again, shaking countless hands and twitching animatedly through his grinning players.

"We knew Tennessee would be tough," said Rupp, tasting the joy of another SEC winner at the age of 70. "We had to scrap all the way."

Rupp's 27th conference title wasn't fashioned easily. Preseason favorites, the Wildcats had to play catch-up to Tennessee in the last few weeks.

"They simply outfought us and deserved to win," said Tennessee Coach Ray Mears, whose squad wound up in a dead tie with Kentucky but lost the NCAA berth because of an earlier loss to the Wildcats.

While the SEC finally settled things for the NCAA's post-season tournament, the Atlantic Coast Conference began its playoff Thursday for a tourney berth.

Two of the teams that were supposed to win the first round did—Maryland defeated Clemson 54-52 and Virginia beat Wake Forest 74-65. But Duke upset favored North Carolina State 73-60 to earn a semifinal berth.

The day's results set up pairings tonight between Duke and North Carolina, the regular-season league champion, and Virginia against Maryland. Finals will be played Saturday.

Tennessee and Kentucky played it close right to the end in a tense game staged before a disappointed full house at Knoxville, home of the Volunteers. John Snow, who scored 17 points for the losers, missed a 12-foot jumper as the final gun sounded.

Kentucky used but five players and got double figure scoring from four of them. Jim Andrews was high for the winners with 20 points.

Len Kosmalski,. Tennessee's seven-foot sophomore, led all scorers with 24.

Jim O'Brien's two free throws with 10 seconds left enabled Maryland to squeeze past Clemson, the last-place team in the ACC.

Virginia came from behind to beat Wake Forest as Barry Parkhill scored 24 points and Scott McCandlish had 20 points and 16 rebounds.

Duke outscored North Carolina State 16-3 in the last three minutes to whip the Wolfpack.

Stu Yarbrough and Bill Melchinonni each scored 16 points and Alan Shaw added 12 points and 10 rebounds for Duke. Tom Burleson led North Carolina State with 18 points.

JuCo Pairings Are Announced

(Democrat-Capital Service)

HUTCHINSON, Kan. — The first-round pairings for the National Junior College Athletic Association's championship tournament have been announced.

State Fair Community College, the Region XVI (state) representative will battle Casper College, Casper, Wyo., at noon Tuesday. Casper is currently ranked 11th nationally.

Two more afternoon tilts are set for Tuesday in the Hutchinson Sports Arena. At 1:45 p.m., Dalton (Ga.) Junior College, the nation's number two ranked JuCo, will tangle with 19th-rated Gulf Coast (Fla.) Community College. The other afternoon contest pits third-ranked Arizona Western against number 10 Paducah, Ky.

Tuesday evening, Erie, N.Y., meets highly-favored Vincennes, Ind., the nation's number one junior college team. Seventh-ranked College of Southern Idaho, takes on Ulster, N.Y., ranked 16th.

Hutchinson, Kan., and Ferrum, Va., the 15th and 10th-ranked teams respectively, take the floor in Tuesday night's finale.

The remaining two first-round tilts are scheduled for Wednesday afternoon. Seminole, Okla., (6th) faces Southeastern (Iowa), in the opener at noon; Tyler, Tex., takes on Robert Morris of Carthage, Ill., at 1:45 p.m.

The tourney is a double elimination affair, but to win the National Junior College Championship, a team has to win all its games.

The defending champion, Ellsworth Community College, Iowa Falls, Iowa, is not in the field, but last year's runner-up, College of Southern Idaho, is.

Other teams that will be making a repeat from the 1971 tourney are: Robert Morris, Casper, Ferrum, Hutchinson, Gulf Coast and Tyler.

This is the first time that State Fair Community College has been to the finals. They have been competing on the junior college level for only four years.

Last year's Region XVI representative, Three Rivers (Poplar Bluff, Mo.) finished fourth.

Says Conditions Have Been Set In Tribe Deal

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—Sports promoter Nick Mileti reportedly will have to raise his group's immediate cash equity from $1.4 to $4 million and eliminate his planned 1973 public stock sale to be awarded the Cleveland Indians' baseball franchise.

The Cleveland Plain Dealer said it learned that American League President Joe Cronin will outline the two conditions to Mileti today. He is to comply by March 22.

Mileti planned a public stock sale of $5 million in 1973 from the total purchase proposal of nearly $10 million.

Mileti made his original presentation to league owners Wednesday at Sarasota, Fla. It was turned down, but the March 22 date was set for him to make a new proposal.

Haywood's Injury Brings Law Suit

SEATTLE (AP) — Spencer Haywood, the Seattle SuperSonics top scorer, will be out for the rest of the season while the Sonics battle for the remaining playoff spot in the Pacific Division of the National Basketball Association.

Seattle is one game out of second place behind Golden State.

Haywood injured his knee Sunday when he slipped on a wet spot on the floor of the Seattle Center Coliseum during a game with Atlanta.

The Sonics filed a claim against the city Wednesday for "gross negligence" for not repairing the leaky roof of the Coliseum.

The Sonics said Thursday Haywood's knee would be in a hard cast for four weeks. The team said "his ligament is in good position and the knee cartilege appears to be untorn."

Torre, Cards Reach Terms

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — Joe Torre, last year's most valuable player in the National League, signed a two-year contract Thursday which will give him $150,000 in 1973.

"It's no secret," Torre said, in confirming terms of the agreement. He will get $130,000 in the first year. Pitcher Bob Gibson, at $150,000 this year, is the only other Cardinal player in the high salary class.

The slugging third baseman became the third Cardinal in history to sign a two-year pact. Others were Ken Boyer in 1960-61 and Steve Carlton in 1970-71.

Three Cardinal players are still unsigned: pitcher Jerry Reuss, catcher Ted Simmons and outfielder-first baseman Bob Burda. They were instructed to report to training camp under baseball's reserve clause. The clause was not invoked against Torre.

"It gets kinda lonely working out by yourself," Torre said "I'm real happy that this is over."

During his holdout period Torre was busy moving his sporting goods store from Manhattan to Brooklyn, N.Y.

Gary Sanserino's Bat Provides Lone Tally

FORT MYERS, Fla. (AP) — The Kansas City Royals held their second intrasquad game of the young spring season Thursday, and Gary Sanserino accounted for the major part of the fireworks.

His home run clout over the left-field wall decided the game, 1-0, in favor of Coach George Strickland's team over one coached by Harry Dunlop.

Sanserino's blast was something of an achievement—with a 25 mile-an-hour wind blowing straight into the plate.

John Mayberry accounted for another solid hit—a 350-footer into the wind that looked like a golf ball as it went by, according to pitcher Roger Nelson.

Fitzmorris and Nelson were two impressive pitchers in a solid pitching display. Jim Rooker also looked good, as he has all spring.

Manager Bob Lemon expressed pleasure with the pitchers to date, saying he was going to start letting them throw whatever they wanted. Lemon said it was time to judge the hitters on something beside fast balls.

No game is scheduled today, with the club working on fundamentals.

Dryden Gets Help

Montreal Canadiens' goalie Ken Dryden (on ice) receives help in front of the goal mouth from teammates Guy Lapointe, left, and Pierre Bouchard, right, as they thwart a scoring attempt by St. Louis Blues' Garry Unger, during the second period of action, Thursday night, in St. Louis. Montreal whipped the Blues, 5-1, with three insurance goals in the final period. (UPI)

Tenn. State Has Trouble In First-Round Contest

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Tennessee State wound up as the No. 1 team in The Associated Press' final college division basketball poll and now must prove its worth in the NCAA playoffs.

The Tigers will find that pretty tough to do, if Thursday night's South regional game was any indication of things to come.

They managed a bitter 80-79 victory over Louisiana State of New Orleans as time ran out on the losers.

The game was the first of a doubleheader. Delta State coasted to a 71-59 triumph over Transylvania (Pa.) in the nightcap.

In the other college division playoff games, Evansville defeated Wittenberg, Ohio, 81-73 and Eastern Michigan edged Kentucky Wesleyan 61-59 in the Great Lakes regionals and Roanoke beat Mercer 78-72 and Biscayne bopped Florida Southern 68-62 in the South Atlantic.

The winners all moved into the finals of each tourney today.

Tennessee State's 23rd victory in 24 games this season was a tight squeeze. The Tigers lost most of a 12-point lead with two minutes left as Louisiana State rallied behind the shooting of Melvin Henderson and John Hamilton.

Henderson drilled in a layup with three seconds remaining, but there simply wasn't enough time to catch Tennessee State.

Delta State had an easier time with Transylvania. The statesmen, led by Don Cooper and Jesse Palmer, had a 34-27 halftime lead and opened it from there. Cooper scored 26 points and Palmer hit 16.

Play was stopped momentarily in the bruising contest as spectators threw paper cups on the floor when several technical fouls were called against Delta State.

Evansville, the defending college division champion, outscored Wittenberg 19-11 in the final seven minutes for a comeback victory. The Ohio team had a 47-40 lead at the half.

Lindell Reason converted two free throws with two seconds remaining to give Eastern Michigan a hard-fought victory over Kentucky Wesleyan. The winners' George Gervin had hit a free toss to tie the game before Reason's clinching shots.

Roanoke took the lead just before the end of the first half and never trailed after intermission, although Mercer twice tied the score in the last 20 minutes. Biscayne hit 14 free throws in the last 11 minutes to beat Florida Southern.

Sooners, Tigers Clash Saturday in Columbia

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The Oklahoma Sooners and the Missouri Tigers will fire away at each other Saturday afternoon at Columbia, Mo., for second place in Big Eight Conference basketball.

The game will be regionally televised. Both Missouri, 18th ranked in the nation, and Oklahoma are 9-4 in league play.

Kansas State, 11-2, already has won the Big Eight championship. The Wildcats go through the formality of playing the Nebraska Cornhuskers at Manhattan, Kan., Saturday night.

The two games wind up the Big Eight's regular season.

The Missouri-Oklahoma contest likely will be the last college game ever played in Missouri's Brewer Field House where the Tigers have won 42 of their last 46 tests. After this season, Missouri expects to compete in a brand new field house.

The game will bring together two All-Big Eight players, Bobby Jack of Oklahoma and John Brown of Missouri. Jack has a scoring average of 17.0 points a game, and Brown has been hitting at a 21.9-point clip.

Two All-Big Eight aces also will see action in the Nebraska-Kansas State tilt. Chuck Jura of the Cornhuskers has a 21.2 average and David Hall of Kansas State 13.4.

Nebraska must win to hold undisputed possession of fourth place.

Jones, Miletich Unveil Racers

ONTARIO, Calif. (AP)—The results of months of clandestine activity in a Torrance, Calif., garage have been unveiled: a winged racing car of revolutionary design.

Parnelli Jones and Vel Miletich held a news conference Thursday at Ontario Motor Speedway to display the red and white Viceroy Special, the "wings" actually more like stubby fins.

It appears dramatically different from the Ford-powered Johnny Lightning Special which Al Unser drove to victories at the Indianapolis 500 the past two years.

Unser, Mario Andretti and Joe Leonard each will have one of the new, $100,000 to $125,000 cars, plus one each in reserve.

Just how much impact 1972 models will have on other designs depends on how well they perform, Jones said.

"The McLarens are improving," Jones said. "While we were winning last year, they were getting better with their designs. Everybody is getting better."

The $250,000 prototype shown Thursday designed by ex-Lotus designer Andre Phillippe of England behind closed doors at Jones' shop, has wings which contrast with previous treatments.

They are mounted at 45-degree angles with ailerons which can be adjusted by pit crews to compensate for racing conditions. Each of the two main wings is about 18 inches long, extending 32 inches from the bottom of the car's body.

Wings, once banned by USAC for championship cars, are not allowed to extend beyond the middle of the tire treads.

Phillippe said the wings, positioned to be in the free-moving air flow, are for aeronautic design.

All six cars this year will be powered by turbocharged Offenhauser engines of 800 to 900 horsepower.

Andretti and Unser have driven the prototype on Ontario's 2.5-mile oval, averaging 155 to 165 miles per hour.

Andretti said the shakedown runs were to determine how the car handles, not how fast it can go. He said the car feels "light" in the driver's hands.

South Dakota Sports Tall Front Line

ST. LOUIS (AP) — South Dakota University will throw a pair of big frontliners at host Missouri-St. Louis in opening round Midwest NCAA college division basketball tonight.

Coyotes the host Rivermen are most concerned about are 6-foot-7 Dick Authier, who is averaging more than 14 rebounds a game, and 6-foot-9 Chuck Iverson, the club's center.

Missouri-St. Louis, 19-5, won 13 games in a row before stopped by Western Illinois in its regular season finale. South Dakota, 17-9, only won three of its first eight games, then streaked to the North Central Conference title.

Missouri Intercollegiate Athletic Association champion Lincoln University, 20-6, will meet St. Olaf of Northfield, Minn., 18-5, in the tournament's opening game.

Winner of the two-night tournament will advance to the national NCAA college division tournament March 15-17 in Evansville, Ind.

Kids Have Matured

Los Angeles Should Make Strong Bid

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The kids have matured and the Los Angeles Dodgers should make a solid bid for the National League baseball championship this summer.

They finished just a game behind San Francisco in the torrid Western Division battle a year ago.

This time they have added Frank Robinson for hitting power and Tommy John in the pitching department for perhaps baseball's best left-handed hurling array.

Manager Walt Alston embarks on his 19th season at the helm of the Dodgers and he points to such maturing players as Bill Buckner, Bill Russell, Bill Grabarkewitz, Bob Valentine, Steve Garvey and Willie Crawford, the latter an outfielder whose been around a long time but came into his own last season.

John joins a left-handed crew of starters including Al Downing and Claude Osteen.

In 1971, Downing posted a 20-9 record and Osteen the past three seasons has been 20-15, 16-14, 14-11. Add a healthy Bill Singer and Don Sutton pitching from the right side and you have a solid group of starters.

For the bullpen, the Dodgers added Pete Richert who renews old acquaintances in Los Angeles, and they'll have that rocking chair escapee Hoyt Wilhelm who aided in the 1971 stretch drive.

Jim Brewer and Pete Mikkelsen also return to the bullpen and the Dodgers must take a long look at rookie Ted Gilje.

Alston's big problem in the infield is what to do with whom. He has Golden Glove Wes Parker at first base and a battle at second with Grabarkewitz, Russell and Jim Lefebvre. Maury Wills, with a $100,000 contract, owns shortstop except that Russell stands out as the heir apparent.

At third there is the ever-recurrent questionmark. Garvey, Bill Sudakis, Grabarkewitz, and perhaps Russell could handle the job.

Valentine can play second, third or shortstop and could start at any one of the spots.

Duke Sims, who finally found his batting eye late in the 1971 season, rates the No. 1 catcher since the Dodgers sold Tom Haller. The Dodgers also acquired Chris Cannizzaro from the Chicago Cubs and have young Joe Ferguson.

Robinson from the world champion Orioles rates as the power hitter in the outfield although his line drives may be much more instrumental as timely base hits than home runs in spacious Dodger Stadium.

Willie Davis is the centerfielder and hit .309 a year ago. Willie Crawford should be the left fielder in a battle with Bucker, Manny Mota and Larry Hisle.

Mota, lifetime .300 hitter, probably will be platooned against left-handed pitching.

Only rookie with an outfield chance is Tom Paciorek who hit .305 with Spokane.

A healthy Singer could make the big difference for the Dodgers.

He recovered from hepatitis in 1970 but was beset by other ailments in 1971 and posted only a 10-17 mark.

At SMS Relays

Smith-Cotton Bengals Open Indoor Campaign

The Smith-Cotton High School indoor track season was scheduled to open this afternoon in Springfield at the Southwest Missouri State Indoor Relays.

Today's session, one of three qualifying meets for next week's SMS indoor finals, will be used as a testing ground for head track coach Larry York.

"We won't be able to participate in next week's finals," York noted, "due to the Central Missouri Conference Indoor Meet, but it will be a good barometer to register our strengths and weaknesses."

Most of those strengths seem to lie in the field and distance events, however, York has lettermen back in virtually every division.

"We have not had a lot of time to devote to some of the areas, but many of the kids have been working on their own," he said. "I think that we will be real strong by the time the outdoor season starts."

"One thing about this year's outlook is the fact that we should have more people entered in more events. Last year we relied heavily on people like Paul Klover, Mark Hewett and Randy Bloess, but this season should be different in the respect that we are not concentrating on any particular persons for many events," he continued.

Distance seems to be the prime area for the Tigers at this early date. Virtually every entry will be a letterman.

Friday's entries in the mile run included C. E. Baldwin and David Moore. Robert Mayes and Steve Cable were slated for the half-mile.

In the two relay events, the mile and the 880, lettermen are in every position. In the mile, Rick Ream, Baldwin, Larry Hausam and Rick Bellmer were scheduled to make up the relay squad.

In the 880-yard relay, Jim Blaine, Jack Cook, David Knott and Bellmer made up the four-man team.

"We look real strong here," said York, who is in his first year as the head track coach. He replaced Gary Peppin, who left last spring after two successful seasons.

"Rick Bellmer has really improved; he could be one of the keys to our relay events all season," he continued.

In the field events, junior shot putter Aaron Hartt is the mainstay. During practice sessions he has been consistently throwing over 52 feet. According to York, Hartt has a practice throw of 54-7, which is better than the current varsity mark. Entered with Hartt is Ken McDowell.

Pat Curry returns in the pole vault, but will miss the Springfield meet due to strep throat. Randy Taylor, whose top vault is 12 feet, and Fred Knight, who went 11-6 his first time out, will be the two entries at SMS.

Tom Bloess will be back and will anchor the Tigers in the hurdle events. He is scheduled to run in the 65-yard lows and the 60-yard highs. Jim Blaine will join him in the low hurdles at Springfield, while Fred Washington is entered as his mate in the highs.

Jack Cook and Darrell Byrd will be the two S-C entries in the 60-yard dash.

Knight and Dudley Lehmer are the high jump entries for the Bengals, while Cook and Rick Carter will be the two long jump entries.

Four Notch Wins In Lions Tourney

Whiteman Air Force Base, Sander's Midwest of Lee's Summit, Sedalia Pepsi-Cola and Columbia Heidelberg have reached the semifinals of the annual Sedalia Lions Club Independent Basketball Tournament.

Whiteman whipped S-M of Kansas City, 98-89; Sander's defeated Warrensburg, 100-90; Sedalia Pepsi-Cola toppled Blue Springs, 92-76; and Heidelberg rolled over the Sedalia Over the Hill Gang, 106-53, in Thursday's quarterfinals.

Games tonight find Sedalia Pepsi meeting Heidelberg at 7:30, while Whiteman faces Sander's Midwest at 9 p.m.

Saturday, the winners will meet in the title game at 9 p.m.; the losers tangle in the 7:30 p.m. third-place battle.

Opening lead—♦ 3

By Oswald & James Jacoby

South's jump to four spades is one of those all purpose preempts. He doesn't know if he can make it but he knows it's a good gamble.

West leads the three of diamonds. South goes up with one of dummy's high diamonds and leads a trump. West wins with the ace and has to decide between a heart or a club lead.

If he leads a club, South will collect the rest of the tricks and make a slam. If he leads a heart, East will win and give West a ruff whereupon a second heart trick will set declarer at his game contract.

In an expert partnership, West will have no problem with his lead at trick three. East will have dropped the jack of diamonds at trick one. West will know that his partner isn't showing diamond strength. He will also know that he isn't giving a count.

All East can be doing with that jack play is giving a suit preference signal to say "Partner, if you do get in, lead hearts, the higher ranking suit."

As a matter of fact, a very expert partnership might set the hand two tricks. West would lead his fourth best heart, the three. East would know that under these circumstances West would not lead fourth best from a suit headed by nothing at all. Hence, West would be showing the king of hearts by his low lead. Hoggish expert East would win the first heart with the queen, give his partner a diamond ruff, get in again with the ace and give him a second ruff.

NEW HEAT TREATED DISC HARROW BLADES

Made of heavy 11 gauge (20"-9 gauge) high carbon alloy steel, heat treated for long trouble-free service. The special forging process used gives the blades a finer grain in the steel and makes it tougher, and better able to withstand rough usage. The cutting edges are hardened to hold their edge longer yet are not brittle and will not easily break or split when striking stones or other hard objects.

SAVE $1.00 PER SHARE

*Guaranteed as long as the share is not worn out.

The Extra Heavy Duty Long-Wearing share is made of top quality Spring Steel, thus having the best wearing material used in plow shares.

Ask Them Yourself

Want to ask a famous person a question? Send the question on a postcard, to "Ask," Family Weekly, 641 Lexington Ave., New York, N.Y. 10022. We'll pay $5 for published questions. Sorry, we can't answer others.

FOR SEN. GEORGE McGOVERN of South Dakota*

You are asking for immediate withdrawal of all forces from Indochina. Where were you when the thousands of men were being sent there during the past 10 years?—W. F. T., New Smyrna Beach, Fla.

● I first warned against our military involvement in Vietnam in a speech in the U.S. Senate in 1963. I have opposed the war with every means at my command. I will continue to do so until our POWs have been released and our air and naval support of the corrupt government in Saigon has been terminated. The length and character of this war and the murky procedures of our commitment have made it easy for many to forget the early voices that were raised in opposition to this conflict.

FOR JACKIE GLEASON

Many people must have mentioned to you that the character of Archie Bunker in "All in the Family" is reminiscent of Ralph Kramden in "The Honeymooners." Would you have considered the role of Archie Bunker, had it been offered?—Linda Wiseman, Lancaster, Pa.

● No. Carroll O'Connor is great, largely responsible for the success of the show. I suppose there are similarities, but I just wouldn't do the material they do. I think there are easier ways to get a laugh.

FOR EDITH HEAD, fashion designer*

You create such exquisite fashions for the stars. Why are you only pictured wearing basic suits? Do you ever wear any of the lovely fashions you design?—Mrs. Helen Marlin, Riverside, Calif.

● The pictures you see of me—in my basic suits—are when I am at work. Then I feel I am a businesswoman, and I prefer to dress simply. However, I assure you that after working hours, I wear gowns just as beautiful and as elaborate as those I create for the stars.

FOR TWIGGY

Would you ever consider posing in the nude?—Mrs. J. M., Lancaster, Pa.

● I'm not a prude, but I'd never bare my body. I mean, what would my Mum think?

FOR JAMES FRANCISCUS, actor*

What are some of the difficulties of portraying a blind man, as you now do on your program "Longstreet"?—Miss V. Simmons, Folly Beach, S.C.

● The biggest problems were learning to "unfocus" my eyes so they would appear unseeing and remembering to cock my head in the direction of sounds and voices, as a blind man would.

FOR CLARENCE WILLIAMS III,
actor on TV's "The Mod Squad"

I once read that you never learned to drive. Is this true?—Bob Jennings, Tracy, Calif.

● I do know how to drive a car, and I do drive on the show when the script calls for me to do so. However, I do not enjoy driving, and I do not drive outside my role. In my hometown of New York I always used public transportation, so I don't own a car.

FOR WOODY ALLEN

I hear you are making a movie out of Dr. Reuben's book, "Everything You Always Wanted to Know About Sex." How can you possibly make a film out of that?—L. Smith, Short Hills, N.J.

● As director, scriptwriter and actor, I'm using the book strictly as a jumping-off point for the script. The movie will really be sexually far out. I expect it to get an X rating, despite the fact that there will be little or no nudity or strong language. That's all I can tell you about it.

FOR BOB HOPE

What year did you first entertain the boys overseas, and who were your entertainers?—Mrs. Bert D. Hodge, Johnson City, Tenn.

● It was in September, 1942, when I flew 16,000 miles to 35 camps in the Aleutians and Alaska to give 52 shows. In the troupe were Jerry Colonna, Frances Langford and Tony Romano. In June, 1943, I entertained in England. That was my first European appearance for servicemen.

FOR D. W. RABENHORST,
physicist, Johns Hopkins University

What is the "Superflywheel" that is envisioned for the electric car of the future?—H. Heath, Colorado Springs, Colo.

● The Superflywheel can store many times more energy than previous flywheels, so an electric car having a Superflywheel instead of a battery would have faster charging, better range, acceleration and economy. It would also have longer life, and a better tolerance of extreme temperatures. With adequate backing, a Superflywheel-powered vehicle can be developed in only a few years.

FOR JOHNNY BENCH, catcher, Cincinnati Reds*

Do you feel any different when you are playing in a game that is being televised than in one that is not?—Debbie Donnald, Durham, N.C.

● I sure do. People across the nation, friends, relatives and admirers, are all watching to see you maybe for the first time. They form a lot of opinions and will discuss a play or hit for a long time. So the last thing you want to do is be the goat. You're onstage, so it's time to perform; not that you don't do this every day, but it's a little more exciting when the nation is watching.

STAR PROFILE / By Peer J. Oppenheimer

The Duke Is King! How Can That Be, At 64?

"I don't like politics," he told me. "I hate them! I only speak out when I think something is important. I like to consider myself a liberal, but with semantics as it is today, I seem to be running backwards—fast."

What? John Wayne the No. 1 Box Office Star of 1971 in the 40th poll conducted by the "Motion Picture Herald"?

It's no joke; by winning the poll, Wayne sets a new all-time record. It marks his 22nd year among the top ten actors—an achievement matched by no other star. The closest runners-up are Gary Cooper, who was in the top ten 18 times, and Clark Gable, who made it 16 times.

His achievement is doubly amazing considering that he will be 65 next May 26, that his stomach has a tendency to protrude over his belt, that he has a double chin, wears a hairpiece (which he laughingly refers to as "my rug"), and beat much younger competitors like Clint Eastwood, Paul Newman, Steve McQueen, Dustin Hoffman, Sean Connery and Lee Marvin.

So what's the explanation?

Wayne reminds me of a remark Shirley MacLaine made many years ago when she talked about Liz Taylor, who at the time was Wayne's female counterpart. "The sign of a real star is being able to carry a lousy picture," Shirley had said. How well Liz and many of her contemporaries have learned.

Wayne's popularity is even more surprising because he is a man of strong opinions. Particularly when it comes to politics. The mere thought of Communists, for instance, will get the Duke's blood to the boiling point, as it did the day we were playing chess on location in New Mexico.

While he was concentrating on his next move, Wayne overheard a technician remark that we were living in a paradise in the United States. "You're damn right!" Wayne burst out. "If people were only aware of that! The workingman is. That's why those Commies only get to us through the students and the professionals."

Wayne was prominently mentioned a few years ago as a possible Vice Presidential nominee. He pooh-poohed the idea. "I don't like politics," he told me. "I hate them! I only speak out when I think something is important. I like to consider myself a liberal, but with semantics as it is today, I seem to be running backwards—fast."

What is remarkable about this man is that he's so straightforward in everything he says, does and thinks, even in the usually liberal-minded film industry, that nobody holds his conservatism against him. I remember the time I flew to Mexico with Kirk Douglas, who, at the time, costarred with Wayne in "The War Wagon." Douglas is almost on the other end of the political spectrum from Wayne, and the two regularly got into heated arguments on the set. Yet Douglas lost none of his respect for Wayne. "With him, you always know where you stand," Douglas told me.

Wayne readily admits he's old-fashioned. He has never made a film he didn't feel the whole family could see, and doesn't intend to change his ways now. And while he can be rough and tough and outspoken, he can also be gentle and tender and loving. Like he was when I saw him shortly after he got his Academy Award. There was a feeling of sadness as he clutched the Award in his hands: "I lost my Molly Brown [Wayne's mother, whose maiden name was Brown] just three weeks ago, on St. Patrick's Day," he told me. "I wish she could have seen this."

When I had dinner with Duke about five years ago, he told me that if he sold everything he had, he would just break even with everything he owed. This, he said, was due to the "help" of a business manager who shall remain nameless. Today he owns a beautiful home in Newport Bay, Calif., and a 17,000-acre ranch in Arizona, where he raises cattle and cotton. Most of all, he has his health. Seven years ago, he lost half a lung as a result of cancer. ("The doctor said I wouldn't know for sure for five years whether or not the operation was a success. Well, the option period is over, and I'm okay.") This close call changed his life. "It made me appreciate more what I have. Most of all, my family." □

The Incredible Mother-Son Closeness of Jennie and Winston Churchill

The strange and strangely moving story of a son who grew up to become "The Man of the Century," and of a mother who "left no stone unturned, no wire unpulled" to see that he fulfilled his destiny

By Ralph G. Martin, Author of "Jennie"
Especially for Family Weekly

When Winston was 21, he wrote his mother: "Your letter is the central point of my week. If I thought mine could give you half as much pleasure, I should write all day...."

"My mother was everything to me," said England's man of the century, Winston Churchill.

And so she was. It was, perhaps, the most unusual mother-son relationship of modern history. Jennie was much more than Winston Churchill's mother: she was his sister, his sweetheart, his father, and, for a long time, his only confidante.

Winston later admitted that he had only four full conversations with his father in his lifetime. "If ever I began to show the slightest idea of comradeship, he was immediately offended," wrote Winston.

It was Jennie who got Winston transferred from one war to another war, at a time when this was never done in the British Army. Jennie sold his first short story, got him newspaper assignments, suggested and arranged his first book contract, stirred in him his first serious interest in politics, campaigned for him, acted as a preview critic for his speeches. Winston later wrote of his mother: "She left no stone unturned, no wire unpulled, no cutlet uncooked."

Psychiatrists generally agree that the influence of a powerful mother can have drastic effects on a son who has had no real father relationship. They claim that such a son can move to two extremes: either become a homosexual or a Sir Galahad. Among the mothers who raised Galahads supposedly were the mothers of Alexander the Great and Napoleon. On the other hand, Sara Delano Roosevelt, the patrician mother of President Franklin Roosevelt, tried to keep her son nestled close to her, out of politics and power—and she failed.

Jennie was determined not to fail. She was an American, full of American energy and ambition. She had married Lord Randolph Churchill, a man without any goals at all. Lord Randolph wrote his father, the Duke of Marlborough, that he hoped Jennie would make something of him. And indeed she did. She made him the second most important man in England, and he would have become Prime Minister if he had not died raving mad of syphilis.

Then it was that Jennie wrote Winston, "All my political ambitions are now centered in you." Later she added, "I believe in your lucky star as I do in mine."

And so it was Jennie who became the most influential factor in the development of her son. Besides the courage and spirit and drive she instilled in him, besides shaping his mind through their constant discussions and correspondence, besides introducing him to the people who helped determine his future, besides her own maneuvering for him in every area in which she could protect his interests and further his ambition, Jennie had no qualms about using the many men in her life—including King Edward VII—to push Winston's career.

Winston, in turn, had no hesitation in using all of Jennie's influence. "Are you still friendly with the King?" he wrote her, when he wanted something important. And he kept prodding her constantly, "You must get people to do things for me."

Jennie had not been able to give Winston too much of herself in his early years. The English had a tradition of "nannies," older women who acted as substitute mothers for children of the busy aristocracy. And Jennie was busy working full-time on her sick husband's career. In an age when women of her class never even went into the streets without an escort, Jennie single-handedly organized her husband's political campaigns, and drove her own carriage to knock on doors and solicit votes. She also had to divide her time as mother with her younger son, Jack. But both sons loved her deeply.

Jennie's sister Leonie complained, "I have done everything and given my boys everything, but they don't seem to care for me at all." On the other hand, she added, "Jack and Winston have helped their mother in every way, even by not going to the University in order to work, and both absolutely adore her."

"The house is full of you," 21-year-old Winston wrote his mother from his army post in India. "... my writing table is covered with photographs ... my cigarette box that you brought me from Japan ... my books.... Your letter is the central point of my week. If I thought mine could give you half as much pleasure, I should write all day.... How I wish I could secrete myself in the corner of the envelope and embrace you as soon as you tear it open....When the mail comes in with no letter from you, I get in such a state of despondency and anger that I am not approachable by anyone....

"...Well my dearest Mummy ... I don't know what I should do without you...."

As a young man, Winston had few close friends. His brother Jack was five years younger, and there was still a great gulf between them. With women, Winston found himself shy and awkward, and this was true of him until his mid-thirties, when he married.

For a long time, therefore, Jennie was the only one to whom Winston could pour out his loneliness, the only one he loved, the only one who really believed in him.

Many mothers with such an adoring son might tend to keep him close, but not Jennie. Of course she was flattered by his deep love, but Jennie was determined to be neither a smothering mother nor a permissive one. It was difficult for her to write Winston letters that a father should have written, but she did, and whenever necessary. One time when Winston had overdrawn his checking account, Jennie wrote:

"I must say I think it is too bad of you—indeed it is hardly honorable knowing as you do that you are dependent on me and that I give you the biggest allowance I possibly can, more than I can afford....You seem to have no real purpose in life and won't realize at the age of 22 that for a man life means work, and hard work if you mean to succeed ... if you have any grit in you and are worth your salt you will try to live within your income and cut down your expenses in order to do it. You cannot but feel ashamed of yourself under the present circumstances—I haven't the heart to write more...."

Jennie wrote a number of similarly strong letters, and they always brought quick remorse and fresh promise of reform from Winston.

But Jennie knew that Winston had a real need for a strong father image. For this job, she drafted Bourke Cockran. Cockran was a New York Tammany politician, a highly successful lawyer, a big, broad-shouldered man with an impressive lion of a head. President Theodore Roosevelt called him, "the greatest orator in America."

Jennie and Cockran had met in Paris shortly after her husband had died, about the same time that Cockran's wife had died. The two fell in love and would have married, but Jennie would not uproot herself and her sons from England. Jennie was always proud of being an American, never lost her American accent and was called "Best U.S. Ambassador." But she knew that Winston's political future was in England and she would not desert her son or his future.

"This was Jennie's formula for motherhood: love your children, help them in every possible way, but also live your own life to the fullest."

It takes an extraordinary woman to ask her rejected lover to take care of her son, but Jennie never hesitated. Cockran himself was more than willing. He would never have a son of his own, and so he met Winston at the New York dock, took him to his home and to his heart. Many years later, Winston said that Bourke Cockran had been the greatest single influence on his oratory—and then proceeded to quote long excerpts from Cockran's speeches. More than the oratory, however, Cockran gave Winston the strong father influence that he badly needed. It was a relationship that lasted through a lifetime of continuous correspondence and many meetings in England and the United States.

Another part of Jennie's great success with Winston was that she increasingly regarded him as an equal. "My mother was always on hand to help and advise," wrote Winston. "She soon became my ardent ally, furthering my plans and guarding my interests with all her influence and boundless energy. . . . We worked together on even terms, more like brother and sister than mother and son. At least so it seemed to me. And so it continued to the end."

Jennie could do this because she insisted on having her own life, too. Winston was a core of her life, certainly the central core, but she had other cores, too. Even before Winston became famous, Jennie was regarded as "the most important Anglo-Saxon woman of the world." She was an author of books, essays, newspaper articles; a pianist of concert quality who played duets with Paderewski; an artist, playwright, horsewoman, politician, and surely one of the most beautiful women of her time. In a world where women novelists usually took male noms de plume, Jennie became editor and publisher of a spectacular international literary magazine. At a time when there still weren't too many women nurses in the Boer War, Jennie converted a cattle boat into a modern hospital ship and took it down to the wounded, making her own inspection of frontline hospitals. Aside from all this, Jennie married two other husbands. One was as young as Winston, and the other—whom she married at 63 – was even younger than Winston.

This was Jennie's formula for motherhood: love your children, help them in every possible way, but also live your own life to the fullest. Let them enrich your life as much as you enrich theirs. In doing so, do not be so permissive as to let them do whatever they want. And do not be so smothering as to insist they do everything you want. When they are children, give them the fullest responsibility of which they are capable. When they are grown, give them the full wisdom of your experience – but only as much as they want to take.

But again, only by expanding your own life to the utmost of your reach and talent will you be able to let your children go and grow as they should – and earn their increased respect as well as keep their love.

What happened to Winston Churchill is history. He became the Sir Galahad of England and the free world during its greatest time of crisis. He was able to do it because the woman behind him, the woman who shaped him more than anybody else, was his American mother, Jennie, certainly one of the great and unique women of her time.

No wonder Winston Churchill always kept on his desk a copper cast of a hand. It was his mother's hand, and his own hand was almost a replica of it. □

WILL YOU SMOKE MY NEW KIND OF PIPE

30 Days at my Risk?

All I want is your name so I can write and tell you why I'm willing to send you my pipe for 30 days smoking without a cent of risk on your part.

Please send me another Carey Pipe for my brother. I have about every kind of pipe you can think of. When in the Service, I purchased pipes in France, Germany and Switzerland, but this is the best pipe I have today. There just couldn't be a better tasting, sweeter smoke than you get from the Carey Pipe.
L. S. Edwardsville, Illinois

By E. A. Carey

Here's what's different about this pipe. It's the first pipe in the world to use an entirely new principle for giving unadultered pleasure to smokers. It's so different in smoking quality that it's patented by the UNITED STATES GOVERNMENT under patent number 3267941.

It's different than any pipe ever invented. It smokes COOLER—MELLOWER—SWEETER—and DRIER. Even dyed in the wool cigarette smokers find it easier to smoke and enjoy than any pipe, or any cigar they've ever tried. Some say it's as easy as switching from one brand of cigarettes to another.

GIVE IT 30 DAYS—you'll never go back to cigarettes again. No cigarette, no cigar, nor any other pipe can give you the full rich flavor, aroma, deep down satisfaction, enjoyment, and peace of mind that you get from a Carey Pipe.

Here is the way of it: The hazards of cigarette smoking are not new. Long before the Surgeon General issued his nerve shattering report on SMOKING AND HEALTH, evidence that cigarette smoking was associated with Cancer, coronary artery disease, chronic bronchitis, and emphysema, was mounting rapidly. It was then that I decided to switch to a pipe. That was over 30 years ago.

Like most other cigarette smokers I just couldn't tolerate the goo, the bitterness, the tongue bite, and that stale, foul, after-taste that results from smoking an ordinary pipe. As a result I dedicated hundreds of hours searching for the ideal pipe—buying all the disappointing gadgets, and never finding a single, solitary pipe that would smoke hour after hour, day after day, without bitterness, bite or sludge. In disgust I gave up and went back to cigarettes—and of course back to COUGHING, WHEEZING, CHOKING.

It was then I decided to try to work something out on my own, something that would not leave my mouth tasting like the proverbial blacksmith's glove. Thousands of experiments and five long disappointing years later, almost by accident, I hit upon a solution. A solution so simple but so effective that it made smoking a pipe an entirely new and exciting smoking experience. By harnessing four great natural laws this invention gives you everything you want in a satisfying smoke. It doesn't require any breaking in, from the first puff it smokes cool—it smokes mild—it smokes right down to the last bit of tobacco without bite. It never has to be rested, and it it never has to be cleaned; yet it is utterly impossible for goo or sludge to reach your tongue, because this invention does not allow the goo to form.

In appearance and in quality, the Carey Pipe is like any of the two or three leading World brands. The bowl is made of the finest selected premium briar, imported especially for this use. The bit is conventional in appearance—made of molded nylon—the newest and finest material for pipe bits. The color and finish are what you would expect in any of the best pipes on the market. It is, in every respect, a pipe you will be proud to smoke. It is entirely free of the outlandish contraptions that have been seen on so many so-called "improved" pipes in the past.

Discover the thrill of this new kind of smoking. Accept our offer to LEND YOU a Carey Pipe for 30 days' trial use. At the end of the trial period, if you say the Carey Pipe has given you the greatest smoking pleasure of your life, you may keep it. But if you are willing to go back to your old smoking habit, break the Carey into bits, return the pieces and the trial will have cost you nothing.

Before we send you your pipe we would like to know the style you prefer so send us your name TODAY and we'll send you absolutely free our complete trial offer including descriptive literature and pipe styles so you can decide for yourself whether or not thousands of Carey smokers are right when they say the Carey Pipe is the greatest smoking invention ever patented.

Remember you have nothing to lose. One hundred thousand doctors have kicked the cigarette habit. YOU CAN TOO, THE EASY WAY.

Write today! E. A. Carey, 285C, 1920 Sunnyside Ave., Chicago, Ill. 60640

E. A. Carey, Dept. 285C, 1920 Sunnyside Ave., Chicago, Ill. 60640
Okay Mr. Carey. Send me your complete trial offer so I can decide for myself whether or not your pipe smoking friends are right when they say the Carey pipe is the greatest smoking invention ever patented.

TRUE OR FALSE?

1. If you're conservative about taking risks—in business, the stock market, or whatever—it's a sign you're lacking in self-confidence.

2. If you have a wide variety of friends and acquaintances—of different types, ages and walks of life—this indicates that you have an inner sense of security and self-confidence.

3. If noisy conditions don't bother you when you're working, this indicates that you're a calm, placid, easygoing individual, with a minimum of emotional conflicts.

4. If you have a friendly, outgoing personality, you'll be able to have a few drinks and show the effects less than if you're the quiet, reserved type.

5. If you have a particular fondness for jokes, gags, witticisms and comic situations, you may get a lot of enjoyment out of life, but you're likely to be lacking when it comes to sober, serious thinking.

6. You're a better judge of your own character and personality if you're an extrovert.

ANSWERS

1. False. Studies at the University of Massachusetts have shown that persons with a conservative attitude toward risk-taking—who like to make a careful estimate of the odds before taking a gamble in any department—tend to be highly individualistic and have ample confidence in themselves and in their own judgment. Personality tests showed that people who lack self-confidence are found at two extreme poles: the compulsive risk-takers, who like to take long chances on all sorts of things; and those who are so cautious that they seldom take a risk of any kind if they can help it.

2. True. Studies at the University of Kansas have shown this to be very definitely the case. It was found that people who were lacking in a sense of security felt threatened by persons dissimilar to themselves and tended to avoid them, preferring to associate only with people who closely resembled themselves—in character, temperament and general outlook.

3. False. Psychological studies have shown that people who are extremely high-strung and temperamental work significantly better in loud noise than more emotionally well-balanced personalities. And investigations have also demonstrated that persons with neurotic tendencies are often capable of doing their best work under incredibly noisy conditions.

4. False. Studies have shown that the outgoing personality is much more likely to have his ability impaired when he imbibes than the quiet, reflective type. The former makes friends easier, but the latter holds his liquor better.

5. False. Studies have shown that the ability to laugh at life's foibles tends to go hand in hand with intelligence and the capacity to tackle and solve tough problems.

6. False. Studies show that the introvert knows himself better. However, the extrovert has the advantage of being less prone to soul-searching and self-criticism. As a consequence, he tends to have appreciably more self-esteem. □

MICKEY LOLICH

The Fat Man Comes Into His Own

The Detroit Tigers' pitching ace Mickey Lolich is living proof that a fat man can succeed in big-time athletics. Lolich insists he needs an extra layer of flesh. "Big bellies run in the Lolich family," he says. "We're healthier when we're chubby." He added seven pounds to his 208-pound frame last spring and had a sensational season, winning 26 games. He also carried extra weight in 1968, when he won three games for the Tigers in the World Series, to clinch the championship. Lolich says he's the redemption of the fat man who watches him on TV and shouts to his wife, "Hey, Maude, get me another beer. I wanna be like him." Lolich pitches left-handed, but he's not a natural southpaw. When he was a child, a motorcycle fell on him and broke his left clavicle. He was told to exercise his left arm vigorously. After several months, the exercise had given him more strength as a portsider. Still a lover of motorcycles, he now owns five, including one for his wife, Joyce. . . . A native of Portland, Ore., Lolich prides himself on a "rubber arm" that never gets sore. For several years, he was "second banana" to Detroit's glamorous pitching star, Denny McLain. But Lolich came into his own when McLain fell into losing habits and was traded. Lolich never complained about his "second-class" status, is known for his good-natured temperament and generosity. Manager Billy Martin says of Lolich, "He's a class guy—as well as the best pitcher in the American League."—By Barry Abramson

Worms in People: No Laughing Matter

Only animals get worms, right? Wrong. Public-health experts warn that well over 10 percent of the American population has pinworms. Nor is only among the poor or the disease prevalent deprived. In fact, whites are far more susceptible than blacks, and the disease is not confined to any economic class or region. Children are more commonly affected than adults, and women more than men. The worms live in the intestines. The universal symptom of the disease is anal itching, an intermittent, severe itching that can go without medical attention for months. Children who demonstrate unusual scratching, nervousness or "crankiness," sleeplessness, weight loss, small skin ulcers or scabs around the anus or genitals should be checked by a doctor. And remember: In any household where one person has pinworms, all are presumed to.

The Diet Watch

Are "Water Foods" Really Low-Calorie?

Our bodies are about two-thirds water, so a dieter can lose weight by drinking less water and eating more salt, thereby lowering his body concentration of water. But the dieter who does this is merely losing weight. His fat content remains the same. Water has no calories, so it is not fattening; yet that doesn't mean a dieter can go ahead and freely eat all the "watery" fruits he wants, like watermelon. Some fruits and vegetables that appear to be "all water" have other elements that make them fattening. Among the high-calorie "water" fruits are watermelon (90 calories for a medium serving) and grapes (80 calories for a small bunch). The best low-calorie "water" foods are cucumbers (10 to 15 calories), celery (19 calories for 4 stalks) and lettuce—only one calorie per leaf!—By Harriet La Barre

Jobmanship

What Kind of People Make Successful Salesmen?

Even if you've spent years working with salesmen, you may find this surprising. There are some definite personality differences between the salesman who is moderately successful and the one who is very successful. But the differences probably are not what you expect. At the Industrial Relations Center, University of Chicago, it's been found that high-achievement salesmen seem to have three important personality traits in common: (1) They're strong on personal financial responsibility (this means they manage their own personal income well); (2) They marry early and begin their families early (this means they become providers at a young age, have a strong interest in family activities); and (3) They tend to have extremely stable personalities (you might even say they're conservative, since they're more concerned with keeping what they have rather than planning for improvement or development).

What Kind of Movies Does the Man Who Rates Movies Like?

"I have special tastes in movies, although I claim no special expertise," says Jack Valenti, who, as president of the Motion Picture Association of America, oversees the movie rating system. "I remember the first time I met Darryl Zanuck, the fabled producer. I told him I thought one of his finest films was 'Wilson' back in 1945. Zanuck smiled, as they say, wryly. 'It was a financial bomb,' he said. Thus, my taste does not guarantee box-office success. The kinds of films I like best are history, suspense in the Hitchcockian manner, classic and modern novels brought to the screen, and political films like 'The Best Man' and 'Seven Days in May.' My favorite movies? 'Becket,' 'Young Mr. Lincoln,' 'A Man for All Seasons,' 'Cromwell,' 'The King and I,' and those splendid movies produced by Sam Spiegel—'Lawrence of Arabia,' 'The Bridge on the River Kwai' and 'African Queen.' I am not cheered by unrelieved dreariness and depression, the kind of films that beat at me with bleak admonitions.' —By William Wolf

People and You

Can You Teach Charity To Children?

If you hope your children will become generous adults, interested in the welfare of others, you may be puzzled as to how to guide them. Which works better: explaining what charity accomplishes, or setting a personal example? You can try both; but they won't work equally well. Child-development experts who have experimented found that you can get some results simply by explaining the value of charity. But, for an even better response, it's a good idea to let your children see you putting your words into action. Children who saw the adults acting charitably responded more generously than those who were only "preached" at. Grandma used to call it, "Actions speak louder than words."

From Fleischmann's. The greatest homebaking breakthrough since yeast.

Freezer-Doughs—a great discovery from Fleischmann's Yeast that lets you freeze your homemade yeast doughs as long as a month before baking.

Now you won't have to bake a batch of yeast dough as soon as you've made it. With new Freezer-Doughs, you can make the doughs for rolls, loaves, croissants, coffee cakes or buns, all at once. And freeze them.

Then just let thaw and rise, and bake as you're in the mood for something homemade. Since Freezer-Doughs don't rise first, they take less than one-third the freezer space of baked goods. And they were developed to keep in that freshly made flavor.

Try these delicious Dinner Rolls with Fleischmann's Yeast. You may even want to bake some today and freeze the rest.

In a large bowl, mix 2 cups flour, ½ c. sugar, 1½ tsp. salt, and 2 packages undissolved Fleischmann's Active Dry Yeast.

Combine 1⅛ c. water, ½ c. milk and ⅓ c. Fleischmann's Margarine in a pan. Heat until liquids are very warm (120°F-130°F.). Gradually add to dry ingredients; beat 2 minutes at medium speed of electric mixer, scraping bowl occasionally. Add 2 eggs at room temperature and ½ c. flour. Beat at high speed 2 minutes, scraping bowl occasionally. Stir in enough flour (up to 3 or 4 c.) to make a soft dough. Turn onto floured board; knead until smooth and elastic (8 to 10 minutes). Cover, let rest 20 minutes.

Punch dough down. Divide into 48 pieces. Form each into a 9-inch rope. For bowknots, tie once loosely. For coils, hold one end of roll firmly and wind dough loosely around. For figure 8's, shape into an 8, sealing ends. Place on greased baking sheets. Cover with plastic wrap and foil, sealing well. Freeze until firm. Transfer to plastic bags. Freeze up to 4 weeks.

Remove from freezer; place on greased baking sheets. Cover; let rise in warm place free from draft until doubled in bulk, about 1½ hours.

Bake at 350°F. 15 minutes, or until golden brown. Remove from baking sheets and cool on wire racks.

To bake part of them right away, instead of freezing the dough, just let the shaped doughs rise the usual way and bake as directed.

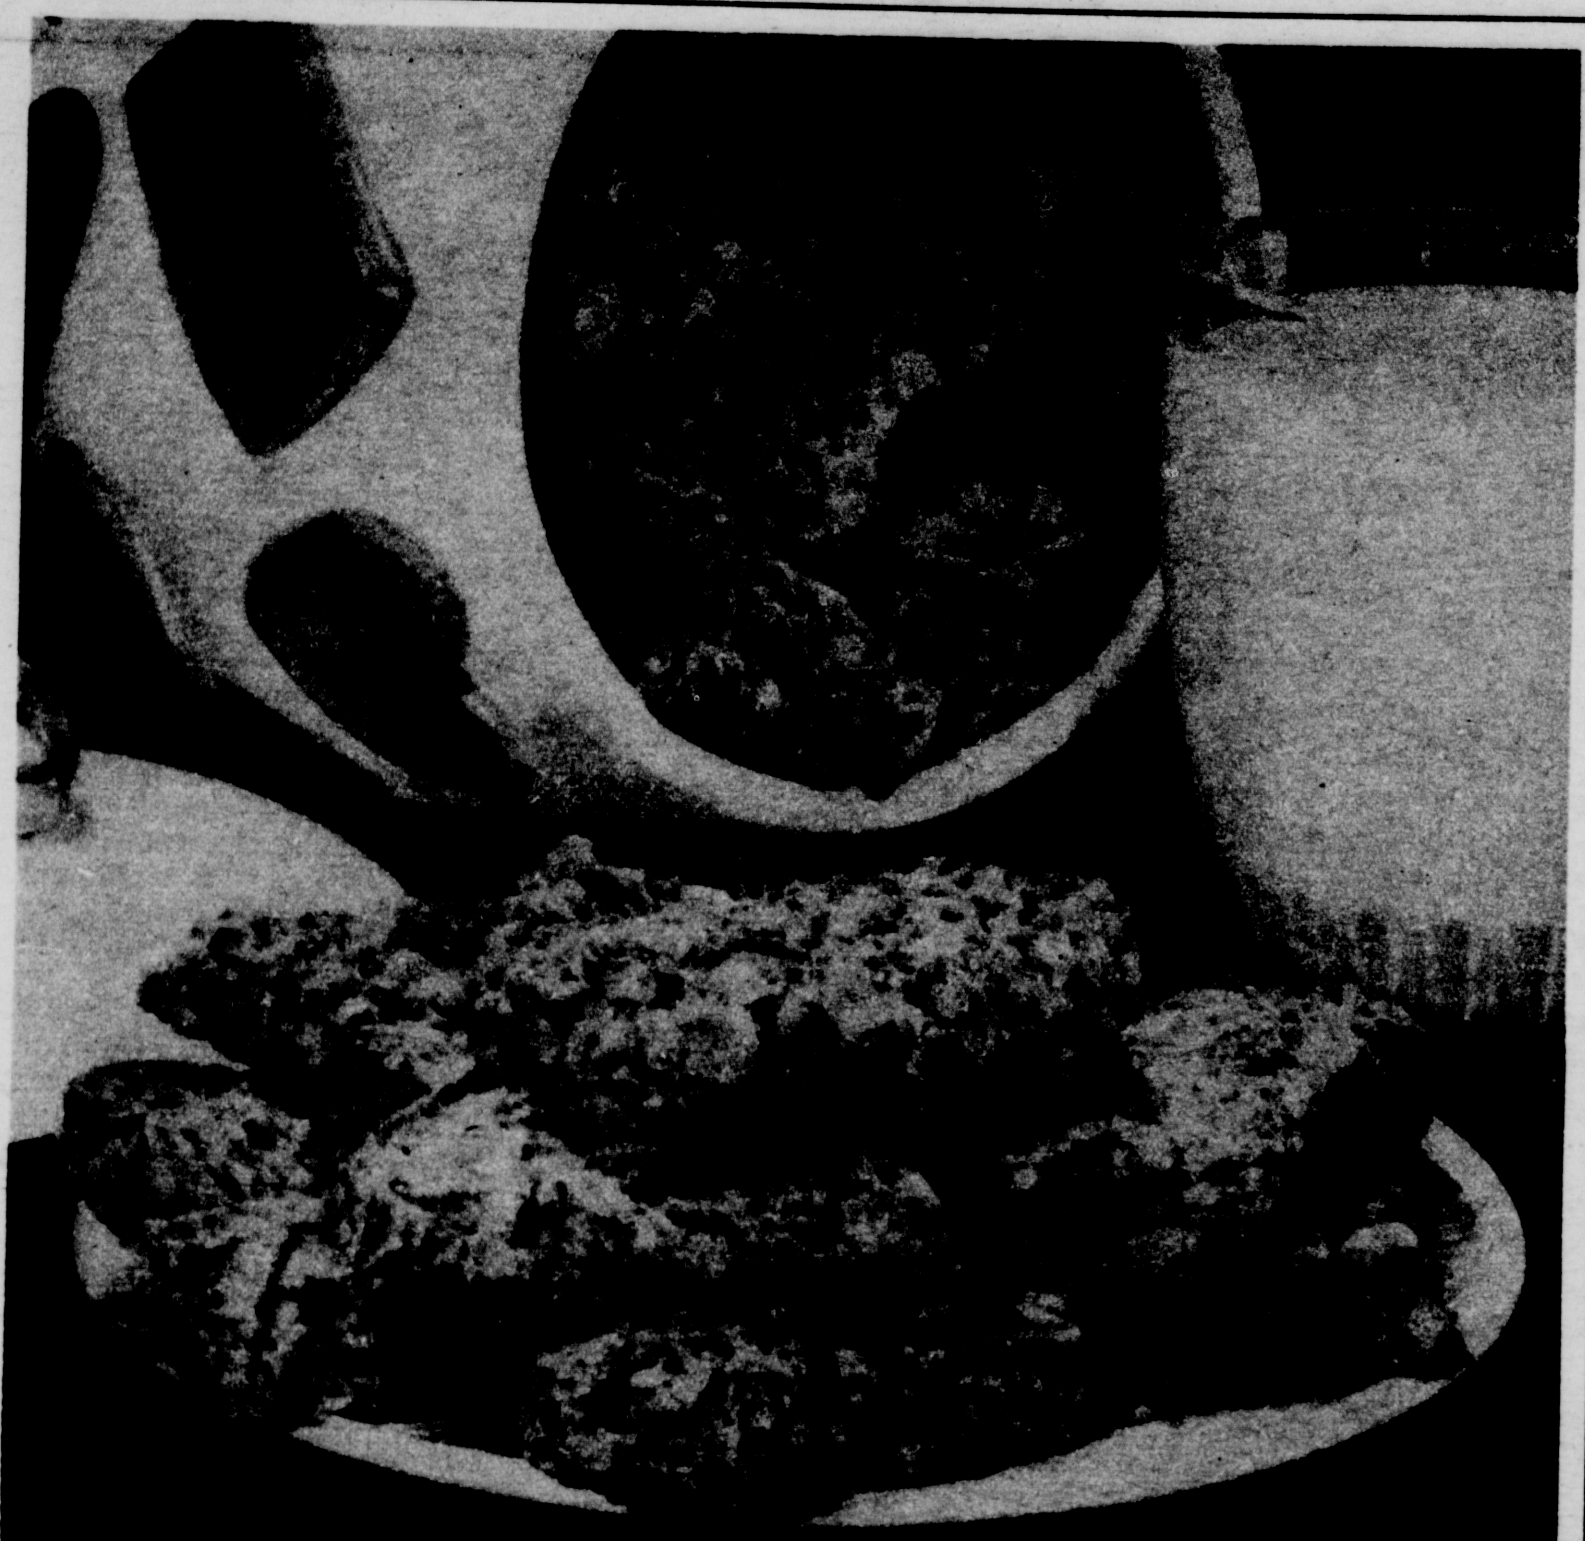
Karen Valentine: My Great Recipe That "Rediscovers" Chicken

"I never invite anybody who will put ketchup on my meat loaf."

By Karen Valentine,
In Conversation with Helen Dorsey



I'm fussy about who comes to dinner. I never invite anybody who will put ketchup on my meat loaf. I hate that! It's an insult when you've gone to all the trouble. I think people should at least taste before they start doctoring.

We really like to entertain, though usually never more than eight. It's fun. I like to cook, and when we have people over, Mac [her husband, actor Carl "Mac" McLaughlin, Jr.] will take over the meat section and I'll cook the vegetables and make a salad.

I've just started eating chicken again. I've changed a lot. I've broadened my scope. I eat fish and everything now. I used to have a chicken hangup. My father was a chicken farmer, and I lived on a chicken ranch all my life. I've had eggs and chicken every way imaginable, and for a while, I just couldn't stand them around.

Karen's Marinated Chicken. An admitted seasoning-lover, she says, "I usually take everything out of the spice cabinet and let it sit."

KAREN VALENTINE'S MARINATED CHICKEN

- 2 chickens (2½-3 lbs. each), cut into serving pieces
- 1 cup dry sherry
- ¼ cup salad oil
- 2 tablespoons parsley flakes
- 2½ teaspoons salt
- 2 teaspoons paprika
- 1½ teaspoons thyme leaves
- 1½ teaspoons basil leaves
- 1 teaspoon tarragon leaves
- ½ teaspoon curry powder
- ½ teaspoon garlic powder
- ⅛ teaspoon ground black pepper

Place chicken in a tight-fitting container or plastic bag; set aside. Combine remaining ingredients; pour over chicken. Cover and refrigerate 12 hours or longer. Remove chicken from marinade. Place on grill over hot charcoal. Broil for 45 to 60 minutes, turning and basting frequently. Or place skin-side up on rack in roasting pan and bake in a preheated oven at 350°F. for 1 hour, or until chicken is tender, basting frequently with marinade. Serve with corn on the cob or cooked rice, tossed salad. Serves 6

Afterthoughts: Use same marinade on chops, steaks or butterfly leg of lamb. Herbs may be varied to suit meat used.

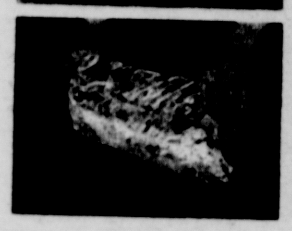
How to cook frozen meats, fish, poultry without thawing

...and get every smidgeon of the juices and flavor

The Basic Idea (Brrrr...it's beautiful)

Once you discover this new method (we call it Freezer-to-Table Cookery) you'll never thaw your roasts, poultry or fish again. And everything you cook will be more tender and flavorful, because you don't lose the juices, as you do when you thaw.



THE RIGHT START: WRAP IT RIGHT! Food technologists consider heavy duty aluminum foil best for freezing. So place the food on a sheet of Heavy Duty Reynolds Wrap. (First remove the plastic wrap you bought them in. These see-through wraps are fine for display in the store, but were not meant for freezing.)

Bring foil up over top of food and double-fold down tight, pressing out all air pockets. Air in the package causes food to dry out, lose flavor. (It's virtually impossible to get all the air out of plastic bags, so they shouldn't be used for freezing.)

Next, fold ends up tight against food. Label package with contents, weight and date. Your food stays fresh and full-flavored because Heavy Duty Reynolds Wrap is a solid sheet of strong, flexible aluminum that keeps moisture in, keeps air out. Reynolds Wrap is oven-tempered for flexible strength...a special kind of strength that resists tearing and puncturing.

Freezer-to-Table Meats

1. (4 lb. rolled rib roast) Remove foil-wrapped meat from freezer, and place in foil-lined roasting pan. Preheat oven to 400°.

2. Loosen foil across the top and at the ends of meat to allow heat to circulate and roast 3 hours.

3. During the final half hour of cooking turn foil back from meat completely so the meat can brown. Gorgeous! Rare and juicy...actually tastier than if you'd taken hours to thaw it.

Neat Gravy Trick: Bundle up the juices in the foil you cooked the meat in, hold over a pan and pierce the foil with a knife. Easy, and no spillage.

ROAST BEEF (rolled top sirloin, cross rib or eye round)	Oven Temp.	Approx. Cooking Time* per pound
		Rare	Medium	Well Done
	400°F	40-45 min.	46-52 min.	54-60 min.

*When opening foil for browning period, insert meat thermometer to determine desired degree of doneness.

Freezer-to-Table Poultry

To Freeze: Truss bird and brush with melted shortening. Place bird breast up on length of Heavy Duty Reynolds Wrap. Bring up long ends of foil and double-fold down tightly to bird, pressing out the air between bird and foil. Fold up foil at each end, envelope style, and press close to bird. Label with contents, date and weight and freeze.

To Roast: 1. (3½-4 lb. frozen chicken) Place frozen bird, foil-wrapped, in foil-lined pan.

2. Preheat oven to 450°. Loosen foil across top and at ends to allow heat to circulate.

3. Place bird in oven and roast 2 hours. Then turn back foil from the bird and roast uncovered for another 20 minutes to allow bird to brown.

Make your favorite stuffing and bake it separately in a tightly sealed Heavy Duty Reynolds Wrap packet. Stays moist and luscious! No pan to scour!

CHICKEN
Weight	Oven Temperature	Approx. Cooking Time
3½ to 4 lbs.	450°F	2 hours, 20 minutes
4½ to 5 lbs.	450°F	2 hours, 50 minutes
5½ to 6 lbs.	450°F	3 hours, 45 minutes

Freezer-to-Table Fish

To Freeze: Clean and wash fish. Place, dripping wet, on a sheet of Heavy Duty Reynolds Wrap. Bring up foil and double-fold tightly, pressing out air. Fold ends tight against fish. Label with contents, weight and date. Important: get fish into the freezer fast.

To Bake: (8 to 10 oz. whole fish or fillets.)

1. Remove foil wrapped fish from freezer. Place, completely wrapped, on shallow foil-lined baking pan.

2. Bake for 30 minutes in oven pre-heated to 450°. (The foil prevents fishy cooking odors and keeps the flesh flaky and tender.) Then turn back the foil.

3. Dot with butter or margarine, sprinkle with slivered almonds, salt and pepper and bake for 10 more minutes.

For variety: Sprinkle fish with chopped parsley and chives, mixed with a little dry oregano, dill or tarragon. A real gourmet touch!

FISH	Oven Temp.	Approx. Cooking Time
12 oz. fillets or small whole fish, such as trout	450°F	40 minutes
2 to 2½ lb. whole baking fish, fish steak or large fillet	450°F	55 minutes
3 lb. whole baking fish	450°F	1 hour, 15 minutes

For everything you want to keep in your freezer.

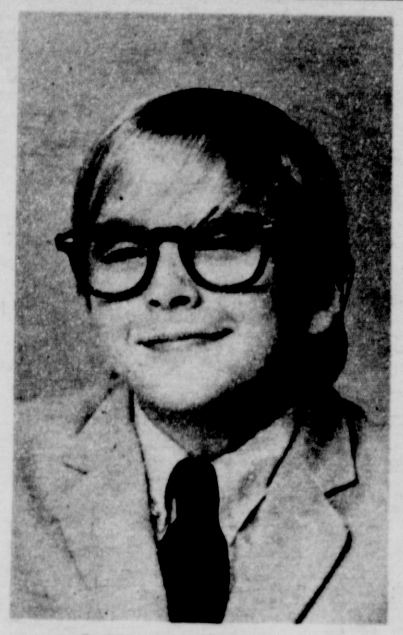
Doctors' Tests Show How You Can Actually Help Shrink Swelling of Hemorrhoidal Tissues

...Due to Inflammation and Infection. Also Get Prompt, Temporary Relief in Many Cases from Rectal Itching and Pain in Such Tissues.

When inflammation, infection and swelling exist in hemorrhoidal tissues—it can be very painful for the sufferer. But there's an exclusive formulation which in many cases gives hours of relief from the burning itch and pain in hemorrhoidal tissues. It also helps shrink the swelling of such tissues. Sufferers are delighted at the way it acts so gently and is so soothing to sensitive tissues.

Tests by doctors on hundreds of patients reported similar successful results in many cases. And it was all done without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or stinging, smarting astringents of any kind.

You can obtain this same medication used in these tests at any drug counter. Its name is Preparation H. Preparation H® also lubricates to protect the inflamed, irritated surface area to help make bowel movements more comfortable. Be sure and try Preparation H. In ointment or suppository form.



This child has a good home, nice clothes, a loving mother- and Pin-Worms!

A tormenting itch in the rectal area, nose-picking and fidgeting are often telltale signs of Pin-Worms. It can happen to anyone in any family—young or old, rich or poor. It's so common, medical authorities say that 1 out of 3 persons examined, especially children, have Pin-Worms without knowing it. And because Pin-Worms bring on itching and fidgeting, they can distract children and affect their school work!

What's more, Pin-Worms are highly contagious, so they can spread from person to person, until the whole family is infected.

What can you do about it? Fortunately there is an easy-to-take medication that gets rid of Pin-Worms. It's called Jayne's® P-W® tablets. Ask your pharmacist. He'll tell you that Jayne's P-W tablets are specially formulated with an effective medical ingredient that gets Pin-Worms out of your system.

Advice to Mothers: How to Get the Gift You Want

By Lorraine Collins

If you are a mother, you know the chances are pretty good that some year you will receive a knitted garbage-can cover for Mother's Day, or a black-lace bikini apron for Christmas. Your family loves you, and they want to choose unique and beautiful gifts for you; but considering the problems they face, you're lucky you don't have a drawerful of diamond-studded can openers.

In the first place, you are the only experienced shopper in the family. Just by being the mother and chief shopper, you know an odd assortment of facts about the others. You know Jenny hates stripes, loves purple and won't wear ankle socks with a skirt. You know Billy always loses mittens but can wear the same pair of gloves all winter. You know the favorite brands of toothpaste, hair cream and candy of everyone in the family, and whether they like fruit, murder mysteries or jigsaw puzzles. You know collar sizes, waist measurements and which recording star is the current favorite.

But who knows anything about you?

When your loved ones set out to buy you something you'd really like, the chances are that they haven't the foggiest idea what it might be. And if they try to get a clue from past performances, they will be even more mystified. For instance, I once astonished my husband by reacting with misty-eyed joy when I got a Donald Duck night-light for my birthday. I also once told him that what I really wanted for Mother's Day was a truckload of fertilizer for our new lawn.

"If you really insist on saying, 'I don't care what it is, as long as you pick it out'—I hope you'll like your Army-surplus sleeping bag!"

One neighbor of ours was dumbfounded when he caused his wife to weep inconsolably because he gave her an electric mixer; what she really wanted was a bag of horehound candy. I heard of another case where a mother returned a bottle of French perfume and got an alarm clock.

The fact is that mothers are both sentimental and practical, in equal portions. Our families recognize this, and are torn between two opposing desires when they give us gifts. Instinctively they may think of something practical, to help us with all that housework. (They feel guilty about housework.) But then they think of buying something feminine and frivolous so we'll know we are still glamorous to them after all those years in the utility room.

It is in trying to meet both requirements at once that our families discover such hybrids as the mink dust mop and the steam iron with a mother-of-pearl handle.

Obviously, in this as in other matters, our families need our help. We cannot simply abandon them in a quagmire of indecision, but must lead them gently toward a solution. To help your family and to take the uncertainty out of the next holiday, I offer these few suggestions:

1. Always warn your husband and children in advance that an important anniversary or holiday is looming on the horizon. Never take it for granted that they know Christmas is December 25th or that Mother's Day is in May. They do want to get you something, and they will feel guilty and inadequate if the important day finds them unprepared. For their sakes, you must learn to say things like, "Gee! In only two weeks I'll be 32!"

2. Next, decide whether you want a practical or a frivolous gift this time, and then let them know. You can be direct or indirect: "This year, let's get each other bathroom fixtures for Christmas." Or, "You know, I saw the cutest frilly nightie in the store today, but I always hate to buy that sort of thing for myself. They had it in a size 12, too."

3. Finally, realize that if you actually do want to be surprised, you'd better be willing to be surprised. Don't cheat by harboring a secret wish for something special, because it has been amply demonstrated that mothers are different from other members of the family, and they think different thoughts. It is highly unlikely that your husband and children are going to spontaneously discover that you secretly covet a painting by Van Gogh.

If you really insist on saying, "I don't care what it is, as long as you pick it out"—I hope you'll like your Army-surplus sleeping bag! □

A Reader's Remembrance:

The Day I Met LBJ

In November of 1962, I was working for the Democratic party in San Jose, organizing the campaign for a congressional representative. It was just before election day. Tension was mounting—and so was my work. Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson was to make a campaign swing through our area, and it was my job to coordinate time, place and appearances with Johnson's team for an outdoor rally.

Mr. Johnson's advance man and I had chosen the front of City Hall at 5 p.m. for the gathering, hoping for a large after-work crowd. It wasn't the best site in the world, but it was the best in San Jose, and we settled for it.

With the arrangements made, I headed for the airport to meet Mr. Johnson. The plane was late, and at 5 o'clock in front of City Hall—no LBJ. By the time we did arrive, the crowd that had numbered 1,000 at 5 p.m. had dwindled to about 50. The speaker's platform was squeezed full of candidates, a band was there, but the plaza was practically empty.

"The speaker's platform was squeezed full of candidates, a band was there, but the plaza was practically empty. Clearly disappointed, Mr. Johnson stared out at the meager audience."

Clearly disappointed, Mr. Johnson stared out at the meager audience. After the speeches were over, he turned to me.

"Son," he said with a quizzical smile, "the next time you're expecting a crowd this size, why don't you just hold the meeting in a phone booth?"

Pet Corner

An Introduction to Turtles

Turtles make relatively care-free pets—and they're more entertaining than you might imagine. If your child comes home with a turtle, consider providing a terrarium in which it can live. A terrarium can be easily constructed within a glass aquarium. Build up a land area of sand or soil several inches deep into which you can sink a pan of water. The water should be: 1) kept at room temperature, 2) deep enough to allow the turtle to swim freely and to eat his food underwater, 3) changed daily. Connect the land area and the pan of water by a few rocks. Keep the terrarium above 68 degrees. (Another approach: Turtles, when small, can share aquariums with certain fish. They will need a piece of Styrofoam to float on, and they should be put in a separate pan of water once a day for feeding.)

Precaution: To avoid salmonella infection, be sure Junior washes his hands thoroughly after handling his turtle. Turtles should not be kissed. Even the "cutest" ones.

DAME AGATHA CHRISTIE
A woman of mystery
—in more ways than one

"I probably could write the same book again and again, and nobody would notice," says the celebrated but little-known Agatha Christie, British writer of mysteries. At 81, she has just published her 81st book. Back in 1915, her sister bet her she couldn't write a detective story. Until then, young Agatha had been writing stories of "unrelieved gloom, in which most of the characters died." But with that challenge, she created her famous detective, Hercule Poirot. She has one daughter, Rosalind, who became her "severest critic—guessing the outcome of all my plots." In 1926, under the pressure of constant work, her own mother's death and the impending breakup of her marriage, Agatha suffered an attack of amnesia. The British press accused her of staging the attack as a publicity stunt. Stung, she vowed that henceforth her private life would remain private—and so it has.

The rent-a-yacht business not only is here, it's flourishing. One New York firm (World Yacht Enterprises Ltd.) can provide you with anything from a 50-footer to a 300-foot floating palace —in 20 places around the world. All the boats (650 of them) have experienced captains and crews, and the firm also will provision them if the customer wishes. The cost, naturally, depends on just how much luxury is wanted. Estimates per person run from under $200 a week, including meals, to over $1,000 on a super-deluxe job. To get to his yacht, the renter simply flies to a nearby airport in Mexico, the Caribbean, the Mediterranean or the South Pacific.

This Week's Book Quote: Even the most troublesome issues of our day have their other side. Overcrowding: "There are overcrowded cities, but not an overcrowded earth. You could take all the construction that laces and graces and defaces the globe—all the villages and cities and huts and houses and buildings and factories and roads, and put the whole thing down in Greenland, and it would be lost among the glaciers." Crime: "The homicide rate is 70 percent less than in 1933, and the robbery rate is 30 percent less. Violent crime in the big cities was highest immediately after the Civil War. It rose also after World War II to a height much higher than now." (From "The Case for Optimism," by James Dillet Freeman, Harper, $4.95.)

BURTONS AND BARONESS
A look from the lady

Will Liz Taylor stand for Richard Burton's looking at another woman? Sometimes, perhaps, but Liz doesn't appear to be especially pleased about her husband's proximity to the Baroness Guy de Rothschild at this Paris show, a benefit for the United Jewish Appeal. The entertainer was Liza Minnelli, opening a series of one-woman shows in the French capital. Baron Rothschild organized the evening and presided over the benefit.

BOTTLED-UP FEELINGS

BY RICHARD ARMOUR

It once was great when I no more
My bottles need return.
I tossed them in a vacant lot
And didn't give a durn.

An end to all the former toil,
And paying a deposit.
No longer stored I bottles up,
Then lugged them from the closet.

But now again I pay, I store,
I haul . . . I think ecology
Is very nice for earth and things,
But owes me an apology.

I face your manly sneers
And argue very rationally

illness or an accident . . . the worries and bills . . . not just for the hospital and doctor but the household expenses and all the extra needs of the family during those difficult times.

It's to help meet these needs . . . to provide the cushion of extra cash, that N-BF Life Insurance Corporation created the Extra Cash/Plus Plan that pays you tax-free cash when you need it most . . . extra cash you can use any way you wish . . . tax-free cash that you don't have to account for to anyone.

Without the cash to pay the additional bills and the extra expenses, you could leave the hospital without the money to meet your obligations, or even to meet your household expenses. Without the Extra Cash/Plus Plan, you might have personal debts you can't pay.

A steady flow of cash paid from 1st day in hospital

But with cash benefits day after day, week after week, month after month paid by your Extra Cash/Plus Plan, you can have a steady flow of cash to meet your additional needs.

Your cash benefits begin the very first day — there's no waiting period — and benefits are paid for as long as hospitalization continues, even up to 25 months—more than two full years—for each new stay in the hospital for sickness or accident. PLUS: you get extra benefits for up to 30 days when you or a covered family member must be confined to the intensive care unit and you're paid for the first 30 days of convalescent or nursing home care following hospitalization —all at the same low premium.

Your Extra Cash/Plus Plan pays you directly in addition to everything you receive from any other Insurance company — even Blue Cross and Medicare. You're paid your full cash benefits even if other insurance pays all your expenses.

All of your unmarried dependent children residing in your home may be included under this plan between the ages of 1 month and 19 years. Both you and your wife—if neither has been hospitalized for sickness for more than a total of seven days in the past two years—are eligible for coverage. There are no other qualifications!

Generous benefits at 65 and over paid in addition to Medicare

If you're over 65, or when you become 65, because Medicare will pay many of your medical and hospital expenses, your Extra Cash/Plus Plan will pay you $300 a month for the first two months you're in the hospital and then $600 a month for the next 23 months. And you get up to $300 extra benefits for up to 30 days of intensive care and convalescent or nursing home benefits for up to 30 days following hospitalization.

Premiums are kept low— because there's no costly red tape

Your policy will be issued to you on your application without the usual fuss or bother and with no red tape.

These few customary exclusions help keep your premiums low: conditions resulting from declared or undeclared war or act of war; mental illness or nervous disorder; confinement in a federal hospital or federal convalescent facility. Even maternity is covered when both husband and wife are insured. Pre-existing conditions are covered when hospitalization begins two years* or more after protection starts — and there is no medical examination to enroll.

Regardless of your age or size of your family, your first full month is only $1

You get all these benefits now plus a 5% increase in your extra cash benefits each year for five years—a total increase of 25%—to keep up with the rising costs of everything you have to buy. And you get this protection for yourself and your entire family for even less than you'd think. Regardless of your age or the size of your family, your first full month's protection is only $1. You pay only these low monthly rates* according to your actual age at the time of each renewal (when both husband and wife are covered, the husband is the insured):

LOW MONTHLY RATES*

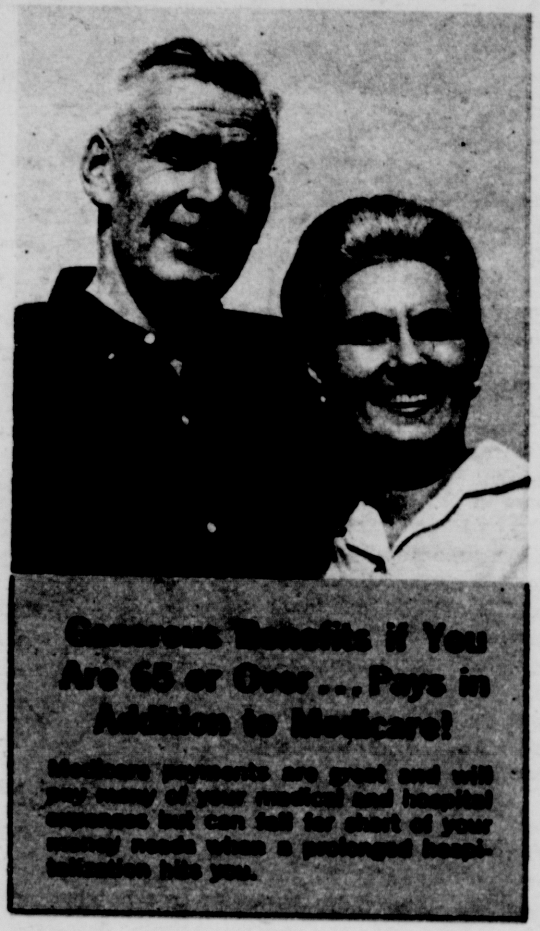
Age of Insured Policyholder*	Policyholder	Policyholder and Spouse
19 - 44	$4.50	$8.50
45 - 54	5.50	10.00
55 - 64	6.50	11.50
65 and over	8.00	14.50

For only $2.00 a month more you can cover all your children—no matter how many—who are unmarried, dependent on you and are between one month and 19 years old. And, every addition to your family is automatically covered at one month of age with no additional premium.

NOTE: And once issued to you, your policy can never be cancelled or your rates changed no matter how old you grow, no matter how poor your health becomes, no matter how many claims you make unless we refuse to renew or change rates for all policies of the same classification in your entire state.

How can the rates be so low for so much protection?

The answer is simple. The Extra Cash/Plus Plan was created by the National Ben Franklin Life Insurance Corporation (a nation-wide leader in low cost group plans for veterans, and others) for mass enrollment of Family Weekly readers throughout the United States. And because we sell through the U.S. mail, sales costs are kept very low and you get the most protection for the lowest possible rate.



The National Ben Franklin Life Insurance Corporation, Chicago, Illinois, is a member of The Continental Corporation, among the largest insurance groups in the entire world. National-Ben Franklin is a legal reserve company founded in 1852 — more than 100 years ago — licensed in your state and regulated by your own state insurance department.

For only $1, your policy will be issued and go into force for a full month just as soon as we process your Enrollment Form. Sorry, only 1 policy per family.

$1 No-risk money-back guarantee

When you receive your policy, you'll see that it is simple, direct and easy to understand. Read it carefully and show it to a trusted advisor to make sure it's exactly what you've wanted and needed. If you change your mind for any reason whatsoever, simply return the policy within 10 days of receipt and your money will be refunded promptly.

PLEASE REMEMBER: This is a Limited Time Enrollment — we can only accept your Enrollment Form if it is postmarked before Midnight March 29. Please don't wait until the last moment. The sooner we receive your Enrollment Form, the sooner you and your family will be protected by the Extra Cash/Plus Plan. With the $1 money-back guarantee, you risk nothing, but you could risk losing hundreds of dollars of extra cash if you delay. Please mail your Enrollment Form today!

25. How much does my first month cost? How much do I pay after that?

POLLY'S POINTERS

DEAR POLLY—Many of us who no longer smoke have a lot of glass ash trays on hand. I have found they make neat and practical spoon rests on the stove. They are easier to wash than a smeared-up stove top.—MRS. C. A.

DEAR POLLY—An empty dish detergent container (particularly a round one) makes a great holder for storing half-used scouring pads. Cut about two inches from the top and three inches from the bottom, discard the middle section and then the top should fit over the extra inch of the bottom to make your container.—MIM.

Mitchell Denies Statements Involving President Nixon

WASHINGTON (AP) — An ailing lobbyist was quoted Thursday as saying President Nixon told former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell to go easy in a pending Justice Department suit against the International Telephone & Telegraph Corp.

Brit Hume, an aide to columnist Jack Anderson, said he heard of Nixon's alleged role in the case from Mrs. Dita Beard, Washington lobbyist for ITT.

Shortly afterward, Mitchell issued a statement saying: "The testimony attributing statements to me involving the President is totally false and without foundation.

"I categorically deny that I ever had any such conversation or that I ever made any such statement anywhere or at any time.

"The President has never, repeat never, made any request to me directly or indirectly concerning the settlement of the ITT case and I took no part in that settlement."

Hume said he confronted Mrs. Beard with a memo she wrote linking a $400,000 pledge from ITT to the Republican National Convention in San Diego and the eventual out-of-court settlement of the antitrust case against the firm.

Hume quoted Mrs. Beard as describing her confrontation with Mitchell at a reception in the Kentucky governor's mansion following the Kentucky Derby last May.

Here is what Hume told the Senate Judiciary Committee, which is re-examining the nomination of Richard G. Kleindienst to succeed Mitchell as attorney general:

"He (Mitchell) said at the party in Kentucky he had received a call or had been contacted by the President to lay off ITT."

"You mean this is what the President said?" Hume said he asked Mrs. Beard, who is now hospitalized with a serious heart ailment in Denver.

In answer to that, Hume said Mrs. Beard softened the President's intent to mean that Nixon wanted Mitchell "to make a reasonable settlement."

Former Republican Kentucky Gov. Louis Nunn, who was host at the Derby reception, told the committee Tuesday that Mrs. Beard collapsed in a stupor during the reception.

Earlier Sen. Edward Gurney, R-Fla., sharply questioned Anderson about where he obtained the Beard memo.

Declining to name his source, Anderson offered to make a copy and return it to ITT officials, drawing laughter from the mostly tense and packed hearing-room.

"If a newsman's source can be hauled before the government then the First Amendment is absolutely useless," Anderson said in answer to an accusation from Gurney that the memo was stolen property.

Anderson said that Kleindienst was directly responsible for the failure to carry an antitrust suit against ITT to the Supreme Court and is unfit to replace Mitchell.

In Hughes Fraud

Juries Indict Irvings

NEW YORK (AP) — Clifford Irving and his wife Edith were indicted by federal and county grand juries Thursday on charges of fabricating taped interviews, forging documents and engaging in other schemes in a plot to obtain $750,000 for a bogus autobiography of billionaire Howard Hughes.

The indictments spelled out in minute detail how the Irvings and their researcher, Richard Suskind, carried out the alleged hoax which duped two major publishers.

Irving and Suskind are accused of taking turns playing Hughes in simulated interviews of the billionaire, recording their answers and later offering these to McGraw Hill, Inc., as tapes of unprecedented conversations with the eccentric recluse.

The 24-page indictment charged the Irvings with mail fraud and conspiracy. It named Suskind as a co-conspirator but not a defendant.

The county grand jury charged the Irvings and Suskind with grand larceny, conspiracy and possession of forged documents.

In addition, Irving and Suskind were charged with perjury—Irving for swearing he had met with Hughes in such places as California, Mexico and Florida and Suskind for saying in an affidavit he was present at such a meeting in California where Hughes gave him "an organically grown prune."

Dist. Atty. Frank S. Hogan said the 25-count county indictment alleges the Irvings and Suskind thought they could "successfully defraud McGraw-Hill based upon their belief that Hughes was either deceased or not of sufficient mental or physical capacity to denounce the autobiography as a fake."

The three were arraigned on the federal charges before Judge John Cannella who set next Monday for pleading after Irving's lawyer, Maurice Nessen, asked for "an all-purpose adjournment."

As told in the indictments, the story starts in December, 1970, exactly one year before McGraw-Hill and Life magazine startled the publishing world with the announcement that they had title to a Hughes autobiography.

This is the case alleged against the Irvings and Suskind:

The author and his researcher met in December 1970 on Majorca, a neighboring island to Irving's home on Ibiza off the coast of Spain. There they "formulated the scheme to defraud McGraw-Hill."

The first step to bring the hoax to fruition came on Jan. 3 when Irving sent a letter to Beverly Jane Loo, an editor at McGraw-Hill, which had published his previous book "Fake!" Irving told Miss Loo he had sent Hughes a copy and "received a warm response."

Toward the end of January, Irving wrote Miss Loo that Hughes had expressed an interest in doing an autobiography.

At the end of the month, the indictment said, Irving forged three letters in Hughes' handwriting, using as a model a sample of Hughes' handwriting contained in the Dec. 21, 1970, issue of Newsweek magazine.

He took these to New York where he met with McGrawHill executives on Feb. 10 and discussed with them how he would compile the autobiography.

During those months, Irving also

Raid Enemy Positions

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. fighterbombers raided antiaircraft positions in North Vietnam for the eighth straight day, the U.S. Command reported Thursday.

The U.S. Command said Air Force F4 Phantoms bombed antiaircraft artillery sites Wednesday at two locations about a mile apart inside North Vietnam's half of the demilitarized zone and at another point about 40 miles north of the zone. It claimed the enemy fired on unarmed reconnaissance planes.

The results of the strikes, the command said, were not known, but there was no damage to the American planes.

The command has a policy of not disclosing the number of fighter escorts with each reconnaissance plane. Other sources said the latest attacks were carried out by flights of two to four F4s each.

Each raid is counted by the command as one protective reaction strike even though more than one plane participated. The U.S. Command has reported 90 such raids this year.

In a delayed report, the command said one F4 was shot down Tuesday by ground fire while attacking North Vietnam's Ho Chi Minh trail in southern Laos. The two crewmen are missing, the command said.

U.S. B52 bombers continued to pound the northern region of South Vietnam below the demilitarized zone, in an area 31 miles southwest of Da Nang, and in the central highlands.

Sources said the bombers' missions were against suspected enemy troop concentrations, infiltration routes and base camps in an effort to slow down what American officials say is a continuing buildup by the Communist command.

In another development, the aircraft carrier Kitty Hawk arrived off the Vietnamese coast, bringing the U.S. 7th fleet's carrier force to four. It marked the first time since November 1970 that the fleet has had four carriers committed to the war, although only two of them now are engaged in air operations over Indochina.

The U.S. Command reported eight American soldiers from the 196th Infantry Brigade were wounded when their patrol set off an enemy booby trap nine miles south of Da Nang.

The command also announced that five Americans were killed in combat last week and 38 wounded. Nine U.S. servicemen died from nonhostile causes.

The South Vietnamese Command reported 302 government troops were killed and 713 wounded last week. It claimed 1,300 enemy soldiers were killed in that period, the largest number in a month.

Mo-Ark Group Shocked

The Missouri-Arkansas Basins Flood Control and Conservation Association (Mo-Ark) Wednesday expressed "shock" at a suit filed Monday by the Environmental Defense Fund (EDF) and others to stop construction on the Harry S. Truman Dam and Reservoir near Warsaw.

A prepared statement by Lew Paramore, assistant to the president of Mo-Ark, which is based in Kansas City, said, "Officials of this 20,000 member organization were totally shocked to learn that a group apparently sponsored by the Environmental Defense Fund has filed an injunction suit in the federal courts ... Here we have the peculiar and unlikely situation of an eastern-based organization suddenly concerned in a mid-west project."

The EDF, the Missouri chapter of the Wildlife Society and several residents in the Truman Dam vicinity filed the suit in U.S. District Court in Kansas City. They cited failure by the Corps of Engineers to comply with the National Environmental Policy Act and several other federal laws as the basis for the action.

According to the EFD, completion of the reservoir project would eliminate farms, destroy important archaeological and paleontological sites and cause the possible extinction of significant wildlife.

Mo-Ark said it has supported the project since its inception. "In south central Missouri, millions of dollars would be stagnated and it would cost the federal government even more — and to no purpose except delay" if the EDF suit succeeds, Paramore's statement said.

"We have no doubt that this project will ultimately be built. We question the intentions of anyone who would deliberately file a delaying suit at this point in time. History has demonstrated that in comparable projects — Tuttle Creek being a prime example — undue dealy has always made projects much more expensive," Paramore said.

After intensive study, Mo-Ark said, it had concluded the project is "a logical solution to the problem of flood protection, water conservation, recreation and other economic and environmental benefits."

Mo-Ark added, "When completed, this project would help attract permanent citizens from the over-populated metropolitan areas. This unwarranted delay will financially damage the very people in whose interest the EDF purports to act."

In its suit, the EDF group alleged the Truman project would be of less value to the area than the Army Corps of Engineers claims. "More than 70 per cent of the claimed flood control benefits occur on the Mississippi River, primarily in the vicinity of St. Louis, but even below Cairo, Ill.," the EDF said.

It also stated, "Truman Reservoir is designed to help protect urban areas of the Missouri Basin from a flood that can be expected to occur on the average of once every 700 or 800 years. This is clearly a case of flood control over-kill."

South Viet Student Assails War Scheme

By P. C. THOMAS

"It's a regime. It's not a government because it's not representative of the people."

That was how a South Vietnamese graduate student described the present government in his country to a group of Sedalia ministers and civic leaders at a luncheon meeting Wednesday at Holiday Inn.

Doan Hong Hai, an American Field Service student on leave from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, was one of three speakers presented by The Indochina Mobile Education Project. The project is supported by the United Methodist Church, the United Presbyterian Church in the U.S., and the United Church of Christ.

Hai said the Pentagon Papers confirmed his belief that the American Army is in Vietnam in the interest of the American government. He deplored the fact that the only communication between the two countries is between heads of state and not the common people. He said civilians in both countries are against the American presence in South Vietnam.

"How could an American President Vietnamize Vietnamese people?" he asked, questioning President Nixon's recent statement.

Hai said the American presence in his country has permeated civilian life so much that even school children read textbooks printed in the U.S. He claimed that this was detrimental to the growth of the Vietnamese culture.

The leader of the project, Don Luce, described the harm American bombing was doing to Vietnam's economy and the family structure. Luce, who speaks and writes the Vietnamese language, said he has had extensive interviews with people there and has visited the "Tiger Cages" where political prisoners are kept.

Luce said he saw the "Tiger Cages" along with two Congressmen. When he published his findings, the South Vietnamese government withdrew his visa for "special reasons," he said. He added three to five persons were locked up in each of the 5-by-10 feet cells.

When the Congressmen reported their finding to Washington the South Vietnamese government demolished the old cages and "used $400,000 of our tax money to build new Tiger Cages," he said.

Luce, 37, spent 12 years in South Vietnam as an agricultural economist. After returning to the U.S. he testified before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. He is co-author of a book, "Viet Nam: The Unheard Voices." He was director of International Voluntary Services in Vietnam and a research secretary for the World Council of Churches compiling a report on how post-war reconstruction might be conducted.

In answer to a question, Miss Jacquelyn Chagnon, the project's resource specialist, said that strict censorship is exercised against unfavorable news in South Vietnamese newspapers. She said she has seen front pages of Vietnamese newspapers with blank spaces where controversial news items were originally printed. Luce pointed out that he knows of five newspaper editors who are political prisoners in South Vietnam. Some newspapers fill the censored blank spaces with animal cartons, Luce said.

State Fair College Cops Regional Title

Another page was turned in the picture-book story of State Fair Community College Wednesday night in front of a packed house on the Missouri State Fairgrounds. The SFCC Roadrunners zipped to a quick 18-point lead early in the second half and earned an 88-69 victory over Meramec Community College.

The win not only gained the Roadrunners the Region XVI (state) JuCo championship, but it also placed them in next week's national junior college finals in Hutchinson, Kan.

State Fair will take on Casper (Wyo.) Community College in a first-round contest Tuesday.

Fred Davis, SFCC president, said Thursday morning, "I'm still on cloud nine. As our former coach (Fred) Wehking said in a telegram the other day, 'It's another first for us.'"

Asked if he thought the Roadrunners would win in Hutchinson, Davis said, "Well, sure. We're always confident we're going to win. But just being state champs is a great feeling. The kids really deserve it. They've worked hard all year for it."

Davis added that the trip to Hutchinson would "climax the season" for the Roadrunners. "They've given 150 per cent," he said.

Behind a sustained and balanced attack, State Fair moved out to a 12-point lead midway through the first half. But Meramec, whose disciplined offense never varied, pulled to within four, 41-37, by the

Voice Reservations On Disposal Plan

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — The state Board of Health Thursday stopped short of complete endorsement of a solid waste disposal plan passed by the Senate.

The proposal, sponsored by Sen. William J. Cason, D-Clinton, is slated for hearing before the House Public Health and Environment Committee Monday night.

It was amended in the Senate to require a local vote before a solid waste disposal facility could be established in a community with tax money. Sen. Earl R. Blackwell, D-Hillsboro, sponsored the Senate amendment to alter the bill.

The Board of Health voiced reservations about the amendment.

Board Chairman J. D. Chastain of Des Peres said the board concluded solid waste controls are "a neglected area of legislation," but the board feared the Blackwell amendment could hamper the division in its work.

The board questioned the outcome of an unsuccessful referendum and said the amendment removes "the authority of the division to stop health hazards resulting from dumping" solid wastes.

Robert Robinson, Division of Public Health engineer, told the board the problem is not only an urban concern. He said many rural area complaints are investigated by the division.

Robinson said a recent case of dumping solid wastes in a "sinkhole" in one county showed up as source of contamination in water sources including springs of the adjoining county.

For this reason, the board concluded the division should retain statewide authority to inspect any possible source of contamination to assure Missourians of health controls.

"Garbage and refuse is everyone's concern," said Dr. Herbert R. Comke, acting director of the Division of Health. "Our program of inspection could be hampered if a local referendum removed the division's authority to do its job."

The board met Wednesday and Thursday in Jefferson City for a regular meeting, but concerned itself primarily with pending legislation affecting the division.

Earlier, it endorsed a bill sponsored by Rep. Charles Dickey, D-Mexico, which would require boarding homes to come under division regulation and licensing. That measure was passed by the House and is awaiting Senate committee action.

Here's How ITT Commitment Was Really Made

WASHINGTON — The ITT-Kleindienst $400,000 misunderstanding has many tragic consequences. One is that the motives of one of the great conglomerates of this country are being questioned. There are certain skeptics who believe that ITT would never have offered $400,000 to finance the Republican convention in San Diego if the Justice Department hadn't agreed to let the conglomerate hold on to one of its prize possessions, the Hartford Fire Insurance Co.

Buchwald

I can state without qualification that this is not the case. The decision to donate $400,000 to the Republican National Convention was made in good faith by men who felt strongly about preserving the two-party system. This is what happened:

The Republican Party wanted a national convention very badly, but they had no money to hold it. So, they went to the ITT people and asked, "Is there any possibility of donating any cash to the Republican convention?"

The ITT people replied, "We would love to contribute to the Republican National Convention, but we have an antitrust suit pending with the Justice Department, and if we gave, say, $100,000, it might look as though we were trying to influence the administration to make a decision in our favor."

"Don't worry about that," the Republicans said. "No one will know you gave the money except President Nixon, Atty. Gen. John Mitchell and H. R. Haldeman in the White House."

"But," said the ITT people, "suppose Jack Anderson finds out about it? He has such a suspicious mind that he could come to the wrong conclusion as to why we would want to contribute $200,000 to the Republican National Convention. He might say that the reason we did it was so that we could hold on to the Hartford Fire Insurance Co., which the Justice Department so unfairly wants us to divest from our conglomerate."

"You have nothing to worry about. Jack Anderson will never find out that you have contributed a dime to our convention in order to hold on to the Hartford Fire Insurance Co. — how do you spell that?"

"H-a-r-t-f-o-r-d. Our company believes its antitrust suits should be judged on the merits of the case alone. If we contributed $250,000 to the convention, the Senate Judiciary Committee might call hearings to find out whether we did anything to influence Richard Kleindienst, who we understand will be the next attorney general.

"On the other hand, if we lost the Hartford Fire Insurance Co. because of the Mickey Mouse tactics of your antitrust lawyers, it would be very bad for the balance of payments of the United States, our stock would take a beating and it would have a serious effect on the economy.

"That is a very persuasive case you have presented. Why don't you lay it out to Kleindienst and ask him to help you? I'm sure he will because he won't know anything about your generous contribution to the Republican Party."

"How can we be sure? Even if we gave $300,000, which we're prepared to do, it would look as if the gift had something to do with the Justice Department suit."

"We don't see how people could think such a thing. The reason we approached you is because everyone knows that ITT has no ax to grind. Your donation will be looked upon as an act of faith in the great American political system.

"Only those with evil minds and members of the Democratic Party would question your noble motives. But we assure you that neither President Nixon nor Atty. Gen. Mitchell, not even Mrs. Mitchell, will look upon your generous gesture as anything other than a gift from a conglomerate with a heart of gold."

The ITT people nodded their heads. "Your words have touched us deeply. Here is $400,000 with absolutely no strings attached. By the way, before you go, could we interest you in some fire insurance?"

Federal Funds For Hot Meals Program

Missouri stands to benefit from a bill sent to President Nixon Tuesday that would authorize federal funds to provide hot meals to aged persons.

The Senate gave final approval to the measure, earmarking $250 million over a two-year period to fund the program. States would be dealt a share of this money based on the size of their aged populations.

Missouri, having a high proportion of aged citizens, would rank high when it comes to allocating the federal money for this program. And since almost one out of every five Sedalians is over 60, the importance of such an effort on the local level would be significant.

The Pettis County Welfare Office said in January that it knew immediately of 250 households that qualified for a hot meals program. There are thought to be many more.

What Congress is doing by authorizing the $250 million is to pump new life into the "Meals on Wheels" program that is already operational in many communities across the nation. Efforts to start a local Meals on Wheels program are already underway.

While the federal money would do a lot toward putting such programs on a dependable footing, the need will remain for a sizable amount of volunteer help. This will be especially true here in Sedalia, where the problem is greater than in many communities.

Federal recognition of the desirability of a hot meal program for the needy elderly, while welcome, does not eliminate the need for a strong local commitment to help this too-often ignored segment of our community.

Phony Fund Fronts For Nixon Coffers

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — President Nixon's money raisers have opened some 200 accounts in Washington banks to circumvent a campaign fund reform which the President himself signed into law.

The new law requires a public accounting of all campaign contributions over $100.

At the signing ceremony, Nixon hailed this as a "realistic and enforceable ... step forward in an area which has been of great public concern." But his noble words were intended for the voters, not the campaign contributors.

The catch is that the law doesn't take effect until April 7. To beat the deadline, the President's own campaign committee has been feverishly opening new accounts in Washington banks.

Under federal law, political contributors are bound by a $5,000 limit. But to prevent hardship at campaign time, the politicians wrote the law so it could be subverted easily.

A man rich enough and motivated enough to contribute $100,000 to a candidate need only to make out 20 checks for $5,000 each. They go to fund-raising organizations with different names but the same base, like pipes from a water main.

To hide the contributions, both parties set up phony financial fronts, usually in the District of Columbia, where there has been no legal requirement to identify the benefactors or their gifts.

All this will now change on April 7, so the President's campaign collectors have been rushing to set up bank accounts under the old law.

His campaign organization is known formally as the Committee for the Re-election of the President. It is staffed by ex-White House aides and directed by ex-Attorney General John Mitchell, with ex-Commerce Secretary Maurice Stans as the chief hat passer.

Stans has already raised well over $1 million from the fat cats, who would prefer to be anonymous. The money has been funneled into dozens of new accounts, which have been hastily opened in the names of phony "citizens groups."

The phony fronts go by such names as "Loyal Americans for Good Government," "Better Society Committee," "Government Reform Committee," "Balanced Society Committee," "Effective Government Council," and "Good Government Committee."

Most of the accounts have been opened in the prestigious First National Bank of Washington only two blocks from the White House. From his second-floor quarters, President Nixon can almost watch through the bank's huge glass windows as Republican depositors line up to lay the cash on the line for his re-election.

Not only the bank, but his campaign committee and his former law firm are located in the same building. The law firm has expanded, incidentally, from a one-lawyer to an eleven-lawyer operation since the distinguished former partner moved into the White House down the street.

But it isn't proximity alone which makes the First National a natural repository for the Nixon campaign accounts. The bank's able chairman, Bill Schuiling, is treasurer of the GOP Congressional Boosters Club. A senior vice president, Tudor Whiton, is treasurer of the Republican Senatorial Committee.

And the bank president, Charles Daniel, is a shrewd Republican financial adviser with a deceptive country-boy manner. He refused to comment on the multiple Republican deposits in his vaults.

"We try to protect our depositors," he told us cordially. "Any information concerning their accounts should come from them."

While Congress dawdles over a plan to establish independent auto diagnostic centers, thousands of motorists die each year because their states have corrupt, careless, or incompetent auto inspectors.

Nineteen states have none at all.

Even Pennsylvania, which has one of the best inspection systems in the land, does an inadequate job. Consider this bizarre case:

On Oct. 7, Robert R. Pyles of York, Pa., sat in the 1962 Chevrolet he used on his night watchman's job. Because the night was chilly, he rolled up the windows. He slumped to sleep and never awakened.

Medical authorities ruled Pyles died of carbon monoxide poisoning. Yet the car had passed inspection less than two weeks earlier.

On Nov. 10, John E. Rank, a 30-year-old neighbor of the dead man, drove the same 1962 Chevrolet into Maryland. With friends, he stopped for a few drinks at a tavern, grew drowsy and climbed into the car. To keep warm, he ran the motor.

Rank's friends left the bar, saw him slumped in the seat and opened the door to turn off the ignition. They left him to "sleep it off." But next day, Rank was still in the car, dead.

The Maryland medical examiner's crack chief investigator, W. C. Masemore, quickly discovered that the car, for as long as a year, had a faulty exhaust pipe. The car also had rusted through in several spots, allowing the fumes to leak into the passenger compartment. Yet on the windshield was a Pennsylvania inspection sticker, still less than two months old.

Footnote: Transportation Secretary John Volpe could have cut off up to 10 per cent of the highway building funds for states without inspection systems. He has failed to act, however, to avoid a political fuss. Sen. Phil Hart, D-Mich., meanwiile has developed legislation to establish a pilot program of independent diagnostic centers to give motorists an honest estimate of what's wrong with their cars.

Today's Thoughts

Jesus said to him, "I am the way, and the truth, and the light; no one comes to the Father, but by me." — John 14:6.

Alexander, Casear, Charlemagne and I myself have founded empires; but upon what do these creations of our genius depend? Upon force. Jesus alone founded His empire upon love; and to this very day millions would die for Him. — Napoleon I.

Wallace Florida 'Spoiler'

By BRUCE BIOSSAT
NEA News Analyst

MIAMI (NEA) — What makes George Wallace run?

Biossat

Here he is, going hard in the 1972 Florida presidential primary. You check back and discover that he has been, with one exception, involved in a major political campaign every two years since 1958.

He ran for and lost the governorship of Alabama in 1958, then won it in 1962. In 1964 he entered Democratic presidential primaries and scored surprisingly high percentages even as he lost in Wisconsin, Indiana and Maryland. In 1966, legally barred from seeking reelection as governor, he successfully put up his late first wife, Lurleen, for the job and did the heavy campaigning. In 1968, he got 10 million votes as a third party candidate for the presidency. In 1970 he won the Alabama governorship a second time. Only 1960 saw him idle.

Whatever drove him at the outset when few in the nation knew of him, it is clear that great zest for the game spurs him now.

He loves the sounds and sights of battle. He relishes the national spotlight which has never left him since 1964. Most of all, he loves to shake up the northern establishment — which usually means the national Democratic Party and its aspiring leaders.

Recently, he joined his fellow Democratic governors at a party caucus in Annapolis, Md. Wallace just toyed with them, dropping hints to governor after governor that he might enter their primaries and upset the applecart. Said Gov. John Gilligan of Ohio:

"I never heard more nervous laughter in my life."

Speaking of those governors, a political observer observed:

"Have you ever heard a man's voice turn white?"

Most of Wallace's many detractors concede that he can be very effective as he punctures the pomposites and hypocrisies of his northern colleagues and rivals. But the tougher part of his game is trying to upset the serious political calculations of presidential candidates. That's really what he is talking about when he says, as he did the other night in West Palm Beach: "I am a serious candidate."

Wallace never wearies of recounting his 1964 primary votes, nor his big 10 million in 1968. Right now, in Florida, he leads a pack of 11 presidential candidates and is thus a source of maximum annoyance to such contenders as Senators Edmund Muskie, Hubert Humphrey, Henry Jackson, George McGovern and New York Mayor John Lindsay. A sizable Wallace victory in Florida could quickly crush the hopes of one or two aspirants.

And it won't end with Florida. He expects to compete hard in other 1972 primaries in Tennessee, Indiana, Wisconsin, Pennsylvania, Maryland. He believes he can win at least two of these.

His ambition burns so hot that he doesn't like to hear anything negative about his prospects. He was disapproving as he told a reporter recently:

"I saw your piece the other day. You said I was slippin'."

Probably Wallace is not as strong nationally as he was in 1968. Polls edge him down a bit. But he has not yet truly slipped. Indeed, the school busing issue may have given him a new lease on life.

George Wallace is not going to win the 1972 Democratic nomination. Nor will he determine who will win. But he will have an effect on the race. And that is what the nation's head political disrupter wants at the very minimum.

Opening lead—♥ 2

By Oswald & James Jacoby

The suit preference signal was invented by Hy Lavinthal of Trenton, N.J. in the early thirties although others have claimed the credit.

Today's hand shows this convention in its best form. East wins the first trick with the ace of hearts and, irrespective of which heart South elects to play, East decides to return the suit in the hope that the lead was a singleton.

East wants his partner to lead back a diamond and the suit preference signal enables him to tell his partner to make that lead.

East returns the nine of hearts. West ruffs, notes that his partner has led back a high heart and leads back the higher of the two suits he must choose between. East takes his ace of diamonds, gives his partner another ruff and leaves the declarer tearing his hair in frustration.

If East held the ace of clubs he would have returned the four of hearts to ask for the lower suit.

Simple? Effective? It sure is.

However lots of players have become suit preference happy. They try to give suit preference signals in all sorts of situations and lose sight of the fact that the suit preference signal should only be used when it is unmistakable and is not to take the place of the basic high card from come-on, or strength, and low cards for weakness.

A—Pass. Three hearts is a close second choice but the odds are that a further bid here will be leading toward trouble.

Study Flight Plan

Three Sedalians study a flight plan at the Sedalia Municipal Airport Thursday which will eventually take them into the rugged interior of Mexico. Dr. Joe M. Bennett, left, and Dr. B. L. Boatright, center, will be among a group of U.S. physicians participating in a clinic sponsored by Docare, International, treating the primitive Tarahumara indians. Accompanying the doctors is Doug Kneibert, editor of The Democrat-Capital. The trio, which left Sedalia Thursday morning, is to return in a week.

Three Sedalians On Journey to Mexico

Two Sedalia physicians and a newsman flew from here Thursday for a remote area of Mexico, where a coordinated effort is underway to bring medical care to a primitive tribe of indians.

The physicians are Dr. B. L. Boatright, a general practitioner, and Dr. Joe M. Bennett, an ophthalmologist. They were accompanied by Doug Kneibert, editor of The Sedalia Democrat-Capital.

Destination of the group is a primitive, mountainous area in Chihuahua state, Mexico. There the Sedalia doctors, along with other physicians from across the United States, will hold a clinic for the Tarahumara indians.

The clinic, one of several held throughout the year in remote areas of Mexico, is sponsored by Docare, International, an organization of osteopathic physicians based in Denver. Docare coordinates all such medical missionary trips to Mexico.

It is the second such trip for Dr. Boatright, who participated in a clinic on Mexico's Yucatan Peninsula in 1970. The Sedalia group is flying in his four-place Cessna aircraft.

Those participating in the clinic will rendezvous in Fort Worth, Tex., on Saturday, before flying into the interior. Veterinarians and dentists are also expected to join the party.

Although the home of the Tarahumara is only 350 miles from El Paso, Tex., it is one of the most rugged areas in Mexico. The Tarahumara are cave dwellers, and are considered to be one of the world's most primitive peoples. Their only source of medical attention is that provided by Docare.

The Sedalia group is expected to return next Thursday.

Woman 'Fair' After Suffering Gun Shot Wound

Mrs. Smith Parkhurst, 82, 1421 South Stewart, was listed in fair condition at Bothwell Hospital after she suffered an apparently superficial gun shot wound to the left side of her head at her home shortly before noon Thursday.

Chief of Police William Miller told The Democrat-Capital Thursday the details of the mishap are still unknown although the investigation is continuing.

An ambulance driver reported that when he arrived at the scene Mrs. Parkhurst was sitting up in bed. He said she had dried blood on her hands.

Police confiscated a .32 caliber pistol and questioned Parkhurst at the station prior to releasing him to the custody of his daughter, Mrs. Eugene Davis, Jefferson City, who took him back to his home.

Miller said Thursday afternoon that an earlier report that the woman shot herself did not originate from police.

According to a Sedalia Ambulance service spokesman, Parkhurst called the ambulance service and it in turn notified police.

Irvings

persuaded his wife to help in the plot.

On May 10, Irving altered his wife's Swiss passport, changing the name to Helga R. Hughes and the final figure from a zero to an eight.

He also changed the photograph for one he had taken of his wife wearing a black wig and horn-rimmed glasses.

Thus disguised Mrs. Irving opened an account at the Swiss Credit Bank in Zurich writing the name "H.R. Hughes" on the application form.

The defendants agreed to keep all money from the scheme in Swiss banks "where they believed the Swiss secrecy laws would afford the greatest protection from detection."

They agreed, too, to keep the money intact "to insure its return in the event that the hoax was exposed."

So far as is known, $650,000 was deposited, of which the Swiss have recovered and impounded $422,000. No explanation is given for the remainder.

Four days after making the original deposit, Mrs. Irving went to the home of her former husband's wife, Hanne Rosenkranz, in Wuppertal, West Germany, and stole her identity card. She used it to open an account at the Swiss Banking Corp. under that name.

On May 28 she took 184,000 Swiss francs (about $46,000) from the account and gave it to her husband on Ibiza.

During this time, Irving executed a contract granting McGraw-Hill exclusive rights to publish the book and fixing the financial arrangements.

Report Only One Election Change Made

Only one change was made Wednesday in unofficial election totals after the city primary elections Tuesday.

City Clerk Ralph Dedrick said the total votes for James T. Gwinn, Third Ward Republican councilman, were reduced from the 67 originally counted to 57. Their error was attributed to faulty addition Gwinn was running unopposed.

Other official vote totals are as follows.

Mrs. Frank Hugelman (D), collector-treasurer, unopposed, 1,367; Robert M. Liston (D), city attorney, unopposed, 1,297; Lawrence N. Englund (D), police judge, unopposed, 1,326; R. S. Wells (D), Third Ward councilman, unopposed, 181; A. G. Cline (R), Fourth Ward councilman, unopposed, 90.

First Ward, Jesse Robinson, 289, and Larry Englund, 214. Second Ward, Ira Knox, 239, and Raymond H. Bales, 105. Fourth Ward, Lee Garrison, 266, and Ray Hendricks, 146.

City Clerk Ralph Dedrick said a total of 1,514 votes were cast in the primary election. This is slightly more than 10 per cent of the eligible voters in the city. Dedrick said that 12,266 registered voters could have participated in the primary.

Both Houses Quit Early For Weekend

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — The Missouri House quit early for the weekend Thursday because its public address system was throwing echoes instead of clear voices.

The Senate quit early, too, because it was becoming bogged down on first debate of Senate bills.

Before it quit the Senate gave tentative approval to a bill that would reduce from 3 per cent to 1 per cent the monthly interest for a merchant failing to turn in his sales tax collections on time.

It also approved giving released prisoners up to $100, instead of $25, to tide them over until they can land a job.

The House approved a bill authorizing all counties to establish special school districts to provide education for the handicapped, including vocational training.

Rejected was a plan to merge present vocational training in public school districts with those operated by the proposed special districts.

The House public address system went on the half-blink Wednesday night during a heated House committee hearing on a bill to eliminate the law on abortion.

In its semi-operation Thursday the loudspeakers produced echoes that made it almost impossible to hear questions and answers during the debate.
